"This resolution allows for a private property, sold in 2021 for $1.5 million, to update their private residential boat ramp. There is no public benefit to this measure. I would like to see this reconciled with the bill that we passed just the other day on jaywalking, because I don't see a reconciliation is possible between having safe streets and then empowering people to jaywalk with the impunity that some people, as they do crosswalks, feel. So, I think this is a lack of reconciliation. Thank you."

"Strong support, short comments. I think, Mr. Speaker, we are in an affordable housing crisis. And I think when we take a look at what fuels our pipeline to build affordable housing, it is our private activity bond cap. And I think when we take a look at this reso, it reaffirms this House's commitment to affordable housing. Because I think we've seen people wanting to do special purpose revenue bonds despite us last year putting a five-year moratorium through Act 182 to stop SPRBs and other things up until 2028.

"We only have $360 million a year to put towards private activities, and I think our commitment here is that all of it should go to affordable housing. I think some of us were very much interested in the GM 3 that came down asking for $200 million to go to other things other than affordable housing. So, I think this is a very, very important and timely resolution to reaffirm this House's commitment to affordable housing and to show that we are committed to making sure the pipeline continues and that all $360 million of our private activity bond cap goes to affordable housing. Thank you, Mr. Speaker."

Representative Nakamura rose to speak in support of both measures, stating:

"In strong support. May the words of the Housing chair be entered into the Journal as my own. And I just want to thank and acknowledge the Housing chair for his strong advocacy on this point, that without this resolution and the clear intention of this House, if we don't do this, then we are going to see much less affordable housing built in our state. So, thank you," and the Chair "so ordered." (By reference only.)

"Rise in support. Over the past 10 years, only about one-tenth of the special purpose revenue bonds that this body has passed have actually gone to Wall Street. So, many of these special purpose revenue bonds have been granted to organizations with zero track record, zero financial assets, so to speak. And we have, up to now, been indiscriminate in passing special purpose revenue bonds. We should not only rely on the Budget and Finance to do the screening, but we ourselves, the Legislature, should screen more carefully as to which special purpose revenue bonds get approved. Thank you."
