Representative Iwamoto rose to speak in support of the measure with reservations, stating:

"Thank you, Madam Speaker. I rise in support with one small reservation. As I read the amendments to the statute, I was, first of all, I'm really happy that we're doing, supporting local farmers with resources from the Department of Education to feed our students. However, I was concerned with, I know it's language that this body's familiar with, but the local value-added processed food as part of the 30% spending made me a little bit concerned, thinking that it might be something like we can go by Spam, open it up, marinate it in local soy sauce, or local ginger, local garlic, and then that would count against the 30%. And that kind of concerned me, because I'm like, how does that support our farmers and help us to get to greater food sovereignty? But that's my only concern. Thank you."
