
A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO LEASEHOLD CONVERSION.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

1 SECTION 1. The legislature finds that in 1967, in response
2 to ideological forces fighting an oligopolistic land tenure
3 system in Hawaii and spurred on by more practical reasons of 4 increasing lease rents on renegotiations, the legislature
5 enacted Act 307, Session Laws of Hawaii 1967 (Act 307), codified
6 as chapter 516, Hawaii Revised Statutes (chapter 516).

7 Chapter 516 allows lessees of long-term leasehold interests 8 in single-family residential development tracts to purchase the 9 fee interest of their residential lots through a condemnation 10 process involving the fee simple landowner and what is now the 11 housing and community development corporation of Hawaii. The 12 latter party would condemn the fee interest, paying the fee
13 owner fair compensation for the fee interest and, in turn, sell
14 the acquired fee interest to the leasehold homeowner. In 1984,
15 following extended litigation, the United States Supreme Court
16 ruled in Hawaii Housing Authority v. Midkiff, that Act 307 did
17 not violate the United States Constitution. Shortly thereafter,
18 in Hawaii Housing Authority v. Lyman, the supreme court of Hawaii

1 also found that Act 307 did not violate the State Constitution.
2 As a result, over the last twenty-five years, the number of 3 leasehold single-family residences fell from a high of 4 approximately twenty-eight thousand to four thousand six 5 hundred.

6 The legislature also finds that following the successful
7 effort to substantially reduce the size of the leasehold system
8 in Hawaii as applied to single-family dwellings, many owners of 9 multi-family residential leasehold units facing lease rent
10 renegotiations, including cooperative housing corporations, 11 condominiums, and planned development housing, aspired to 12 purchase the fee interests under their multi-family units. Over 13 the years, numerous bills were introduced to extend the right to 14 purchase the fee interest to a multi-family unit leasehold 15 owner, culminating in 1991 with two bills introduced in the 16 legislature proposing mandatory leasehold conversion for multi-17 family units or, in the alternative, giving the lessor the 18 option of leasehold conversion or lease rent control. Neither 19 bill passed the legislature.

20 However, in 1991, the Honolulu city council adopted
21 ordinance 91-95, which granted multi-family residential 22 leaseholders the right to purchase the fee simple interest to

1 their units in a condemnation procedure similar to chapter 516.
2 The new ordinance, codified at chapter 38, Revised Ordinances of 3 Honolulu (chapter 38); provided that at least twenty-five of all 4 the condominium owners (defined as owner-occupants) or owners of 5 a certain percentage of the condominium units within the 6 development, whichever was less, could trigger the condemnation
7 process by the city department of housing and community
8 development.

9 Following the inevitable court challenge in Richardson v.
10 City and County of Honolulu, the United States Ninth Circuit
11 Court of Appeals held that the ordinance did not violate the 12 United States Constitution. In 2002, in Coon v. City and County
13 of Honolulu, the Hawaii supreme court upheld the validity of 14 chapter 38. However, the court also held that the rules adopted
15 to implement chapter 38, relating to determining the minimum
16 number of applicants required to initiate the conversion
17 process, violated the ordinance by impermissibly lowering the 18 minimum number of applicants required.

19 This holding prompted the Honolulu city council to attempt 20 to amend chapter 38 in 2002 by introducing Bill 53, which would 21 have brought chapter 38 in line with the liberal rules for 22 triggering the conversion process, consequently making it as

1 broadly applicable as possible. However, this time the 2 proponents were met by a more organized effort by fee owner
3 lessors seeking to keep the conversion process comparatively
4 narrow by excluding as many multi-family projects as possible
5 from the process established in chapter 38.

6 In response to this opposition, the Honolulu city council
7 tabled the measure.

8 In January 2005, after decades of heated debate between 9 proponents and opponents of mandatory residential leasehold
10 conversion, the Honolulu city council repealed chapter 38, 11 thereby repealing the city and county's authority to mandate the 12 leasehold conversion of multi-family residential leasehold
13 units.

14 The legislature believes that, rather than perpetuate a 15 process that polarizes members of the community, an 16 incentive-based approach to the issue should be pursued. To 17 this end, the legislature believes that providing fee owners of 18 multi-family residential leasehold property with the 19 opportunity, for a limited time, to exclude from their taxable 20 income one hundred per cent of the capital gains realized from 21 the sale of the leased fee interest to the lessee would provide

1 fee owners with the proper incentive to sell the fee interests
2 in their real property.

3 The purpose of this Act is to allow, for a limited time, a 4 fee owner to exclude from taxable income one hundred per cent of 5 the gain realized from:

6 (1) The sale of the leased fee interest in a residential
7 house lot or multi-family residential leasehold unit
8 to the lessee of the house lot or unit; or

9 (2) The sale of the leased fee interest in a multi-family 10 residential leasehold property to the association of 11 apartment owners or the residential cooperative
12 corporation of the multi-family residential leasehold
13 property.

14 SECTION 2. Section 235-7, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is 15 amended by amending subsection (a) to read as follows:

16 "(a) There shall be excluded from gross income, adjusted
17 gross income, and taxable income:

15 surtaxes of the United States, even though not so
16 exempted by the Internal Revenue Code itself;
- 17 (6) Any income expressly exempted or excluded from the 18 measure of the tax imposed by this chapter by any 19 other law of the State, it being the intent of this 20 chapter not to repeal or supersede any such express
21 exemption or exclusion;

1 (7) Income received by each member of the reserve
2 components of the Army, Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps,
3 or Coast Guard of the United States of America, and
