
A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO SENTENCING OF REPEAT OFFENDERS.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

1 SECTION 1. Insurance fraud is reported to cost every 2 United States household an average of $500 per year. In Hawaii, 3 the cost of motor vehicle insurance fraud alone has been 4 estimated to be over $164 annually per household. In 5 recognition of the impact that fraud has on the cost of motor 6 vehicle insurance, Act 251, Session Laws of Hawaii 1997, was 7 enacted to establish an insurance fraud investigations unit, and 8 motor vehicle insurance fraud violations and penalties. Act 155
9 and Act 275, Session Laws of Hawaii 1998, were enacted the 10 following year to clarify the penalties for the offense of motor 11 vehicle insurance fraud and enhance and clarify the powers and 12 purpose of the insurance fraud investigations unit to combat
13 motor vehicle insurance fraud.

14 Insurance fraud also has increasingly affected costs within 15 the health insurance industry. Industry healthcare fraud losses 16 are estimated to be as much as fourteen per cent of the 17 $1,200,000,000,000 in annual national healthcare costs. This is 18 equivalent to approximately $36,000,000,000 to $144,000,000,000

1 annually. In Hawaii, based on the conservative estimate that
2 insurance fraud amounts to three per cent of annual Hawaii
3 healthcare costs, health insurance fraud causes losses that 4 exceed $60,000,000 annually. Because insurance fraud is a
5 growing problem in the area of health insurance, the legislature
6 enacted health insurance fraud provisions in Act 125, Session
7 Laws of Hawaii 2003. Similar fraud provisions are in place for 8 workers' compensation insurance.

9 Nationally, many repeat offender criminals and organized
10 crime entities are now engaging in various insurance fraud
11 schemes as a way to generate quick and safe money to fund other 12 criminal endeavors. More and more criminals are turning to 13 white collar crime such as insurance fraud and identity theft as 14 a way of defrauding and stealing from both the government and 15 the general public.

16 In Hawaii, insurance fraud is not listed as one of the 17 class C felony crimes that is covered as one of the repeat
18 offender offenses. Knowing that many criminals and criminal 19 entities utilize insurance fraud as a way to fund often more
20 dangerous or violent crimes and that many white collar criminals
21 see this as a crime where the punishment is minimal, action 22 should be taken to toughen the penalties for those who engage in

1 repeated attempts to commit insurance fraud.

2 The purpose of this Act is to amend the sentencing of 3 repeat offenders to include the insurance fraud penalty
4 provisions located in chapters 386, 431, 432, and 432D, Hawaii
5 Revised Statutes.

6 SECTION 2. Section 706-606.5, Hawaii Revised Statutes, is 7 amended by amending subsection (1) to read as follows:
