8 United States regions; and 9

10 WHEREAS, over the decades, the health workforce of Hawaii
11 and the Asia-Pacific region has consisted largely of the 12 graduates of former University of Hawaii School of Public
13 Health, which once educated hundreds of public health 14 professionals a year, as the second largest graduate program in 15 the University of Hawaii system; and 16

17 WHEREAS, in 1999, the University of Hawaii School of Public
18 Health lost its accreditation; and 19

20 WHEREAS, in 2000, the University of Hawaii School of Public
21 Health was incorporated into the John A. Burns School of 22 Medicine as the Office of Public Health Studies; and 23

24 WHEREAS, upon closure of the School of Public Health, the 25 University of Hawaii administration proposed, and the Board of 26 Regents approved, a plan to rebuild it within five years; and 27

28 WHEREAS, the medical school and the Department of Health
29 have made significant strides towards the rebuilding of public 30 health education, research, and training since the closure of 31 the School of Public Health, most significantly in gaining 32 recent seven-year full accreditation from the Council on 33 Education in Public Health for a program in public health; and 34

1 WHEREAS, the Department recently completed a school of 2 public health business plan, as well as increased the public
3 health faculty size from fourteen to twenty; and 4

5 WHEREAS, a new, independent school of public health could 6 become a reality within three to five years, pending the 7 availability of necessary funding resources; and 8

11 as well as interest by prospective students to sustain a new

23 WHEREAS, currently, Hawaii is facing a health workforce
24 crisis that will be even more critical if public health training 25 and education is not reinstated; and 26

27 WHEREAS, the potential for obtaining research funds has 28 grown tremendously over the last few years, and a new school of 29 public health would provide more flexibility to respond to 30 Hawaii's public health needs including issues relating to a
31 pandemic influenza, substance use, disparities in health status,
32 environmental health problems, diabetes, elder health, injury
33 prevention, childhood obesity, bioterrorism, SARS, and other

35

36 WHEREAS, without a fully accredited school of public
37 health, Hawaii is ineligible to receive maximum federal research 38 money; and 39

40 WHEREAS, other states and universities are considering 41 increasing public health training and research in Hawaii and the 42 Asia-Pacific region because of the absence of a Hawaii school of 43 public health; and 44

1 WHEREAS, because there is no public health school in the 2 State, Hawaii is losing revenue, recognition, and its essential
 3 role of educational public health leadership in the Asia-Pacific 4 region; now, therefore,
 5

6 BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the
