
A BILL FOR AN ACT

RELATING TO HEALTH SAVINGS ACCOUNTS.

BE IT ENACTED BY THE LEGISLATURE OF THE STATE OF HAWAII:

1 SECTION 1. Health savings accounts (HSAs) are an 2 encouraging development in the health insurance market, creating 3 a new opportunity for affordable coverage and engaging patients
4 as partners in managing costs and achieving high value in health 5 care spending.

6 HSAs combine a tax-advantaged savings account earmarked for 7 medical expenses with a high-deductible health insurance plan
8 (HDHP). Lower insurance premiums offset, in part or in full,
9 the amount used to fund the account, which in turn can be used
10 to pay expenses before the deductible has been met.

11 HSA funds belong to the account holder, and unspent 12 balances accumulate and accrue interest, tax-free, from year to 13 year. When health care costs meet the high deductible, health
14 plan coverage applies, typically in the form of a preferred
15 provider organization, with little to no cost-sharing and limits
16 on total out-of-pocket expenses.

17 Because patients using HSA funds are literally spending
18 their own money, they have greater control over their health

1 care decisions, while assuming greater financial responsibility
2 for those decisions. Because patients are spending their own 3 money before the deductible is met, high deductibles shift the 4 locus of cost-consciousness, and thus decision making, from 5 third-party payers to patients and those who care for them.
6 Such cost-consciousness is a welcome antidote to the widening
7 divide between public expectations and rising health care costs 8 and could lessen the need for heavy-handed managed care or 9 government controls. HSAs encourage patients to comparison shop 10 among treatment options, as well as among physicians and 11 hospitals. Only a critical mass of savvy shoppers is needed to 12 make health care markets more responsive for everyone.

13 In addition, HSAs provide a health coverage option to those 14 who prefer to purchase true insurance protection against the 15 financial consequences of low-probability, high-cost events, 16 rather than coverage that, to a large extent, amounts to 17 prepayment of anticipated and routine health care. High 18 deductibles keep premiums down, bringing coverage within reach 19 for many low-income individuals and families.

20 Several features of HSAs protect against inappropriate
21 underutilization of care. The savings account itself allows 22 enrollees to set aside money to pay for medical expenses,

1 particularly expenses incurred before the deductible has been 2 met. Federal law requires HSA high-deductible health plans to 3 provide a stop-loss limit on patient out-of-pocket expenses.
4 Someone with a chronic or expensive medical condition could find 5 an HSA more affordable than conventional coverage because of the 6 premium savings, out-of-pocket spending limits, and tax
7 advantages, in addition to greater control over health care
8 decisions.

9 HSA coverage may encourage patients to seek health
10 information that, in turn, prompts greater use of preventive
11 services or adoption of healthy lifestyle habits. HSAs could 12 also increase aversion to future costs of expensive or chronic 13 conditions. In any case, more evidence is needed on the actual 14 impact of HSAs on patient behavior, and on mechanisms through 15 which such impact occurs.

16 It is imperative that health care leaders come together to 17 discuss ways in which HSAs can assume a more meaningful role in 18 health care coverage in Hawaii. Under the Hawaii Prepaid Health
19 Care Act, all health insurance plans offered by Hawaii employers
20 must be approved as a qualified plan by the state Hawaii Prepaid
21 Health Care Council. Issues with the Hawaii Prepaid Health Care
22 Act need to be addressed in order to determine the role of HSAs

1 in Hawaii's health insurance market. HSAs are currently an 2 option under the Hawaii Employer-Union Health Benefits Trust
3 Fund, as well as an option for sole proprietors, self-employed 4 individuals, and those working as part-time employees.

5 The rapidly rising cost of health care is crippling
6 businesses, forcing layoffs and pay reductions. It is important 7 that businesses and health care consumers have access to all 8 health plan options to lower costs and increase quality of care.
9 Allowing consumers to enroll in a health savings account will 10 help lower the cost of health care, encourage healthier 11 lifestyles, provide greater patient and physician control of 12 health care decisions, and save money for employers and 13 employees alike.

14 The purpose of this Act is to establish a task force to 15 evaluate the current state of health savings accounts options in 16 Hawaii's health insurance market and to explore ways to expand
17 access to these accounts in Hawaii.

18 SECTION 2. (a) There is established the health savings
19 accounts assessment task force within the department of labor 20 and industrial relations for administrative purposes and 21 consisting of the following members:

- 1 (1) The director of labor and industrial relations, who 2 shall appoint the task force members by August 1, 3 2010;
- 4 (2) Four members of the Hawaii Prepaid Health Care
5 Advisory Council;
- 6 (3) Three members or employees of the Hawaii Medical 7 Association;
- 8 (4) Three representatives from the health insurance
9 industry;
- 10 (5) Four representatives from non-government employee 11 unions;
- 12 (6) One representative from First Hawaiian Bank; and
- 13 (7) Four representatives from other interested 14 organizations or stakeholders, at the discretion of 15 the director of labor and industrial relations.

16 The taskforce shall elect from among its members a 17 chairperson and any other officers it deems necessary. Members 18 of the task force shall not be compensated.

19 The task force shall convene its initial meeting no later
20 than twenty days after the director of labor and industrial 21 relations has appointed all of the members of the taskforce.

22 (b) The task force shall:

- 1 (1) Study the current state of health savings accounts
2 options in Hawaii's health insurance market;
- 3 (2) Establish a plan of action to encourage and expand the 4 use of health savings accounts in Hawaii, including 5 potential amendments to the Hawaii Revised Statutes;
- 6 (3) Identify and recruit health plans that may help expand
7 the availability of health savings accounts in Hawaii; 8 and
- 9 (4) Assess the potential economic impact, including costs
10 and benefits, of expanding health savings accounts
11 options in Hawaii, and estimate the potential monetary
12 savings for individuals and employers who are offered 13 health savings accounts.

14 For the purposes of this subsection, "health savings account" 15 means a tax-deferred personal savings account, as set forth in 16 Internal Revenue Code Section 223, linked to a high-deductible
17 health insurance policy and to which employers, sole 18 proprietors, labor unions, or employees may contribute funds for 19 medical expenses.

20 (c) The task force shall submit to the legislature, 21 through the department of labor and industrial relations, its 22 findings and recommendations, including any proposed

1 legislation, no later than twenty days prior to the convening of 2 the 2011 regular session.

3 (d) The task force shall cease to exist on June 30, 2011.

4 SECTION 3. This Act shall take effect upon its approval.
