Aloha Senator Fukunaga and committee members,

Mahalo for the opportunity to be considered as a nominee for the King Kamehameha Celebrations Commission. Thank you also for the opportunity to share my thoughts and experience as a testimony for my nomination process.

Growing up in Hawai'i, I have been very fortunate to be surrounded by the richness of our Hawaiian culture. The importance of family and working together, with our community, was instilled at a very early age, in which we often gathered to cater luau(s). The door to our home was always open to visitors and it was a welcomed chance to share our food, music, and aloha. The strumming of 'ukulele, guitar, base, and autoharp with the sweet sounds of piano and melodic voices warmed our family homes. Gatherings were a time to talk story of the olden days while enjoying the comforts of 'ono foods. It was a time to learn new things such as preparing and cooking, making crafts, or learning a hula or mele. This initiated my joy for hula before formally taking lessons on the grounds of Queen Emma's Summer Palace with Auntie Emma DeFrias. Here, I also learned to hike, pick flowers, and make lei. My appreciation for hula, our language, our 'ali'i and my Hawaiian values were further nurtured in my early years at Kamehameha Schools and later with my Auntie Emma Sharpe, Halau Hula 'o Maiki and other Hawaiian societies/clubs. Over the past 20 years, my cultural knowledge and love has been enriched through service, whether professionally in promotions and public relations, or personally, in volunteer work and as a mother. All that I have learned about our culture and about myself, as a Hawaiian, has become a treasure to me that I now, share with my children. Being a part of the King Kamehameha Celebrations Commission enables me to also share this gift of love with our community and beyond.

The King Kamehameha Celebrations Commission is comprised of representatives from the Hawaiian community therefore the responsibility of each commissioner to best represent and embody the ideas, thoughts, needs, and talents of our people is fundamental. Each commissioner gives a voice to each of our islands, our royal benevolent societies and Hawaiian neighborhoods, in commemorating our 'ali'i, King Kamehameha and his legacy for our people and all of Hawai'i. It also enables us to preserve traditions, perpetuate our culture and move forward in uplifting the values of Hawai'i. It is also vital for each commissioner to gather volunteers and resources to fulfill the needs of our festivities. As a commissioner, I pledge to fulfill all of these duties to the best of my ability so that our future generations may best be able to benefit from the joys and treasures of our history and our people.

As secretary for the Daughters and Sons of Hawaiian Warriors, Māmakakaua, I know the value and significance of preserving our Hawaiian culture. I have been a member since 1993, as is my mother, was my grandmother, and great-grandmother. At the time of my initiation, I was hāpai with my daughter, so she too is an auxiliary member. Our rich Hawaiian history is and has been a treasure of my family for many generations. Over the past 20 years, I have continued to enrich this love of our culture, through hula and service within our community. I have also promoted the beauties of Hawai'i, professionally, in marketing, and in positions, such as an Aloha Airlines flight attendant, and as a Visitor Services Coordinator for the Bishop Museum. In 2007, I was also privileged to promote May Day and the all that the lei represent as a Lei Day Princess for the City and County of Honolulu. Each of these experiences allows me to be of great service as a member of the commission.

Organization, life-long education and my faith is the key to my balance as a professional, volunteer and dedicated Mom/wife. I keep a folder for each of the activities that I am involved in and try to keep up to date with all of my communications, to do lists, and details to projects that I am working on. Knowing that challenges and obstacles are inevitable, the knowledge that I will be able to endure and overcome anything with a spiritual strength and divine power, is an essential part of my life. When my own strength or skills seem unable to tackle a situation, I often believe that a way will be provided through another resource, as long as I am doing things that are in the right. I believe that this faith and optimism is a good key to have amongst a group of varied ideas and characteristics. And I am always willing and eager to learn more every day. My grandfather exemplified the importance of ling-long learning. As a retired Army Colonel, his last years were spent learning the computer, the piano and he also attained his Bachelor degree at the age of 92. I welcome opportunities to learn and to share all that I have already learned. Together with hard work, I know that these simple but important strengths to have as a commissioner for the King Kamehameha Celebrations.

Over the past seven months, I have had the privilege of serving as an interim commissioner. During this time, I began as the commission secretary and as I listened and recorded our meetings, I learned much from each of the other commissioners about their talents and skills that they each bring to the table, whether new or old to the commission. I am a dedicated and reliable individual that enjoys coordinating and working together with a team that is on the same page. With good communications, I am always open and respectful to new ideas, and never hesitate to share my own mana'o or that of the society I represent. I have volunteered to work with the properties inventory, and have had the wonderful opportunity to prepare costuming for the parade. I hope to be of further kokua to the commission as a part of the marketing and parade committees as well. Within the next few years, I hope to strengthen our community involvement and have all of the State of Hawai'i as one in our mission to celebrate King Kamehameha. It would be a great honor to serve amongst the commission members, such as Kainoa Daines, Macky Shea, and all of the commission, to fulfill all of the goals that we set forth, together. Thank you again for your nomination.

Me ka ha'aha'a,

Kalei Fermantez
