Chair Takumi, Chair Chang, Vice-Chair Berg, Vice-Chair Nakashima, and Members of the House Committee on Education and House Committee on Higher Education:

I am the Executive Director of Learning Disabilities Association of Hawaii (LDAH); Hawaii's Parent Training and Information Center (PTI) under IDEA 2004. LDAH's mission is to enhance education, work and life opportunities for children and youth with disabilities by empowering them and their families through information, training and mentoring, and by public outreach and advocacy. LDAH's vision through the provision of its services is to see that people have choice and equal access to all education, work and life opportunities regardless of their disabilities.

LDAH submits this testimony in support of H.C.R. 129. It, furthermore, supports the recommendations made by the Hawaii Branch of the International Dyslexia Association (HIDA), in that H.C.R. 129 "should be amended to specifically provide that the University of Hawaii be represented in the working group. The University is responsible for preparing so many of Hawaii's teachers to meet eligibility criteria for teacher certification in the State – it would seem its participation in the working group is essential."

As Hawaii's PTI, LDAH has a responsibility to help students with disabilities receive access to appropriate educational opportunities and related supports and services necessary to succeed despite their disabilities. We do this primarily by working with, educating and providing mentoring and advocacy for parents related to the specific needs of their children. We provide disability specific information and resources and provide assistance with understanding laws related to children with disabilities. LDAH's education and training program is made equally available to educators and other providers serving these same children.

As our programs and services are provided statewide, we have a finger on the pulse of the state related to the educational needs of students with disabilities. More specifically, parents and educators commonly state how deeply educators and service providers desire, and need, more specialized training in the areas of Learning Disabilities. It is imperative that empirically based practices be made available to our up and coming teachers. And, as Learning Disabilities make up the single largest group of disabilities experienced by our children, any attention given to this topic that would contribute to early identification of needs and effective response strategies is warranted and has the full support of LDAH.

Sincerely,
