SENATE CONCURRENT RESOLUTION

DISCOURAGING THE PRACTICE OF CREATING AND USING SPECIALTY TIERS
FOR PRESCRIPTION DRUGS IN HEALTH PLANS.

1 WHEREAS, Hawaii has long been a leader in ensuring 2 affordable access to health care for its citizens; and 3

4 WHEREAS, health plans across the country have begun to 5 create specialty tiers for certain prescription drugs that 6 require patients to pay either a much higher copayment or a 7 percentage of the cost of the drug instead of a copayment; and 8

9 WHEREAS, these specialty drugs are typically new,
10 infusible, or injectible biologics or plasma-derived therapies
11 produced in lesser quantities; and 12

13 WHEREAS, many of these specialty drugs are used to treat 14 conditions such as cancer; autoimmune conditions, such as 15 Crohn's diseases, lupus, multiple sclerosis, myasthenia gravis, 16 myositis, scleroderma, and rheumatoid arthritis; hemophilia and 17 other bleeding disorders; hepatitis; primary and secondary 18 immune deficiencies; neuropathy; and transplant patients; and 19

20 WHEREAS, high out-of-pocket costs for specialty drugs could 21 preclude patients from complying with the treatment protocols
22 prescribed by their doctors and force patients to choose between 23 paying for basic living expenses and taking their medications; 24 and 25

26 WHEREAS, the health of patients who are unable to afford to 27 take the specialty medicines prescribed by their doctors will 28 further deteriorate, often necessitating more expensive
29 emergency care or forcing them to go on disability, resulting in 30 additional costs to the State; and 31

32 WHEREAS, the practice of specialty tiers violates the basic 33 principle of insurance whereby individuals and groups purchase
