Testimony in Support of HB 2228, HD 1

To: Representative Gilbert S.C. Keith-Agaran, Chair
Representative Karl Rhoads, Vice Chair
Members of the House Committee on Judiciary

From: Catherine Betts, Esq., Executive Director, Hawaii State Commission on the Status of Women

Re: Testimony in Support of HB 2228, HD 1, Relating to Breastfeeding in the Workplace

On behalf of the Hawaii State Commission on the Status of Women, I would like to express my support of this bill, which would require employers with twenty or more employees to make reasonable efforts to provide a clean location for breastfeeding employees to express breast milk in privacy.

In 2009, 50% of all mothers with children younger than twelve months old were employed. 69% of these women worked full time.¹ Working mothers face a difficult challenge when returning to work. Steady employment almost always takes priority over the desire to continue breastfeeding one's child. Many employers do not recognize the many economic benefits that follow when female employees are allowed to continue breastfeeding, including lower health care costs, lower absenteeism, and lower turnover rates. Employees whose employers provide breastfeeding support report improved morale, better satisfaction with their employment and higher productivity.²

While federal legislation requires employers with more than 50 employees to provide reasonable break time for employees to breastfeed, this legislation would expand the reach to employers with more than 20 employees. While it is the Commission's position that all employers, regardless of the number of employees, should be required to make reasonable efforts to provide a clean location for breastfeeding, we nonetheless support HB 2228, HD 1, and respectfully request that this Committee pass this important piece of legislation. Furthermore, as amended in HD 1, a civil fine of $50.00 for each violation is reasonable.

Thank you for this opportunity,

Catherine Betts, Esq.

HB 2228
Relating to Breastfeeding in the Workplace
Committee on Judiciary

Room 325

The Office of Hawaiian Affairs (OHA) SUPPORTS HB 2228, which requires employers with twenty or more employees to make reasonable efforts to provide a clean location for breastfeeding employees to express breast milk in privacy, and provides for a civil fine for failure to comply.

OHA's strategic plan includes a health priority, which states that to improve the quality and longevity of life, Native Hawaiians will enjoy healthy lifestyles and experience reduced onset of chronic diseases.

According to the United States Department of Health & Human Services, Office of Women's Health (OWH) and the Agency for Healthcare Research and Quality (AHRQ), breast milk reduces the risks for the onset of chronic diseases in infants by lowering the risks for respiratory infections, Asthma (young children), types I & II Diabetes, obesity and childhood leukemia. Breastfeeding has also been shown to lower the risk of atopic dermatitis in babies (a type of skin rash) and SIDS (Sudden Infant Death Syndrome).

In addition to improving the health of the infant, breastfeeding also improves the health of the lactating mother. Native Hawaiian women are at a higher risk for type II diabetes, as well as breast and ovarian cancer. For a lactating mother, there is a reduced risk for these chronic diseases. The long term health outcomes and wellness enhanced values of breastfeeding to the mother not only create healthier mothers, they create healthier employees, which is good for business outcomes. OHA encourages the State and employers use this opportunity to launch workplaces and worksites that promote health and wellness amongst the employees. Both men and women can benefit from a worksite that promotes wellness.

The health and economic benefits of breastfeeding at the worksite far outweigh the costs of this initiative. Therefore, OHA urges the committee to PASS HB 2228. Mahalo for the opportunity to testify on this important measure.

From: Linda Hamilton Krieger, Chair and Commissioners of the Hawai‘i Civil Rights Commission

Re: H.B. No. 2228, H.D.1

The Hawai‘i Civil Rights Commission (HCRC) has enforcement jurisdiction over state laws prohibiting discrimination in employment, housing, public accommodations, and access to state and state-funded services. The HCRC carries out the Hawai‘i constitutional mandate that "no person shall be discriminated against in the exercise of their civil rights because of race, religion, sex or ancestry". Art. I, Sec. 5.

H.B. 2228, H.D.1 would amend H.R.S. §378-10 to require employers with 20 or more employees to make reasonable efforts to provide a clean location for breastfeeding employees to express breast milk in privacy. The proposed amendment partially conforms H.R.S. §378-10 to the provisions of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA, 29 U.S.C. §207(r)), which require an employer to provide a place, other than a bathroom, that is shielded from view and free from intrusions from coworkers and the public for an employee to express breast milk. The FLSA requirements, which took effect in 2010, apply to employers with 50 or more employees. FLSA protections for breastfeeding fall under the jurisdiction of the U.S. Department of Labor (DOL) Wage and Hour Division, and not the HCRC's federal counterpart, the U.S. Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC).

The HCRC supports the intent of S.B. 2573, as it has consistently supported proposals requiring or encouraging employers to allow and make accommodation for breast feeding and expression of breast milk. However, the HCRC objects to the placement of this new regulation under the enforcement jurisdiction of the HCRC. While this is good policy, it is unlike the civil rights protections against discrimination in the laws that the HCRC enforces. Again, it is worth noting that the federal FLSA is not enforced by our counterpart, the EEOC, but by the US DOL Wage and Hour Division.

More to the point, the proposed breastfeeding protections are health and safety regulations, rather than civil rights protections within the enforcement mandate of the HCRC. Specifically, the HCRC does not have the expertise or facilities to determine whether a location is "clean".

Accordingly, the HCRC strongly urges the Legislature to move the current breast feeding protections in H.R.S. §378-10 and any new regulation enacted, out of H.R.S. chapter 378, part I, and HCRC jurisdiction. The breast feeding law should be placed under the jurisdiction of an agency that has expertise and facilities required to effectively enforce the law.

And finally, there are costs associated with enactment of laws that are a mish-mash of dissimilar protections, in this case a regulation that is not a civil rights protection, without a conceptual framework, and putting them under the jurisdiction of the HCRC. The HCRC has lost over 25% of its general funded full time permanent enforcement staff (investigators and attorneys), while the legislature continues to add protected bases to the HCRC's enforcement jurisdiction and responsibility. It takes enforcement resources to plan and prepare to enforce new protections, especially novel ones, regardless of the number of complaints that are actually filed. Enforcement resources spent on these newly assigned responsibilities directly affect the investigation, conciliation, and prosecution of all cases involving claims of discrimination involving race, sex, disability, etc.

For these reasons, the HCRC urges this Committee to amend H.B. 2228, H.D.1 to take the existing and proposed breastfeeding protections out of H.R.S. chapter 378, part I, and HCRC jurisdiction, and place this regulation under the jurisdiction of an agency that has appropriate expertise. Thank you for considering the HCRC's concerns.

RE: HB 2228 HD1 Relating to Breastfeeding in the Workplace
Hearing: Tuesday, February 21, 2012, 2:00 p.m., Room 325

Position: Support

Good afternoon, I am Jeanne Ohta, Co-Chair of the Hawai'i State Democratic Women's Party testifying in support of HB 2228 HD1, Relating to Breastfeeding in the Workplace. The Hawai'i State Democratic Women's Caucus is a catalyst for progressive, social, economic, and political change through action on critical issues facing Hawai'i's women and girls. It is because of this mission, the Women's Caucus supports this measure.

According to the US Department of Health and Human Services Office on Women's Health, breastfeeding can help improve an infant's immune system, protecting her from germs and illness. It may also prevent illness such as ear infections, stomach viruses, asthma, obesity, types 1 and 2 diabetes, childhood leukemia, and some respiratory infections.¹ Mothers also benefit from breastfeeding, as it lowers the risk of breast and ovarian cancer, type 2 diabetes and reduces post partum depression.²

Nursing mothers returning to the workplace need adequate time and space to express breast milk while at work. In 2010, the Fair Labor Standards Act was amended to require that employers with more than 50 employees provide reasonable break time for employees to breastfeed as well as a private and clean space for expressing breast milk, other than a bathroom.³ Because we believe that all women deserve this same protection, we support HB 2228 HD1 as it expands that requirement to include employers of any size.

Employment rights only benefit employees when they are clear and well known. We are aware that many employers and employees alike are unaware of the new breastfeeding provisions in FLSA. This measure requires employers to make postings visible to employees informing them of their right to express breast milk at work.

Because it protects the health of women and their children as well as promotes equality in the workplace, we support HB 2228 HD1. Please pass this measure. Thank you.

Re: Testimony in Support of HB 2228 HD1, Relating to Breastfeeding In the Workplace

Thank you for hearing HB 2228 HD1. Planned Parenthood of Hawaii (PPHI) strongly supports HB 2228 HD1, which would require employers to provide a clean and private location for new mothers to express breast milk and to post signs informing employees of their right to breastfeed in the workplace.

Many new mothers are faced with difficult choices when returning to the workplace, including the ability to continue breastfeeding. The health benefits of breast milk for both infants and mothers have long been established. According to the US Department of Health and Human Services Office on Women's Health, breastfeeding can help improve an infant's immune system, protecting her from germs and illness. It may also prevent illness such as ear infections, stomach viruses, asthma, obesity, types 1 and 2 diabetes, childhood leukemia, and some respiratory infections.¹ Mothers also benefit from breastfeeding, as it lowers the risk of breast and ovarian cancer, type 2 diabetes, and reduces post partum depression.²

As the flow of breast milk is slowed by less frequent feeding, returning to the workplace may mean ceasing breastfeeding for some women. Employees who are offered a clean and safe space at work to express milk are able to work without compromising their ability to breastfeed. Currently, the Fair Labor Standards Act requires that employers with more than 50 employees provide reasonable break time for employees to breastfeed as well as a private and clean space for expressing breast milk, other than a bathroom.³ HB 2228 would expand this requirement to smaller employers who employ at least 20 people, therefore benefiting more of Hawaii's working mothers.

The bill would also require employers to make postings visible to employees informing them of their right to express breast milk at work. PPHI believes that this posting will benefit many employees who are not currently aware that they have this right, as well as serve as a strong reminder to employers.

PPHI believes in providing all individuals with the information and tools they need to raise healthy and strong families. Accordingly, we support HB 2228 HD1 and we ask this Committee to pass it. Thank you.

Re: Testimony of the ACLU of Hawaii in strong support of H.B. 2228, HD1, Relating to the Breastfeeding in the Workplace

Dear Chair Keith-Agaran and Members of the Committee on Judiciary:

In order to ensure full equality for women, workplace policies and practices must appropriately reflect the realities of pregnancy, childbirth, and breastfeeding in many women's lives.

Numerous barriers remain to women's continued workforce participation and advancement once they have children, with both short- and long-term consequences for women's earning potential and economic security.¹ Insufficient support for breastfeeding for women who return to the paid workforce after the arrival of a baby is among these barriers. These were among the concerns that animated the enactment of the amendment to the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, Public Law 111-148 ("Affordable Care Act"). Citing the growing percentage of women who return to work within three to six weeks of giving birth, Senator Merkley characterized the provision as "simply an act of human decency to protect their right to continue [to] breastfeed after they return to work. . . [t]o help meet their basic needs with [] regard to the care and nourishment of their children."² He also cited health benefits for infants and nursing mothers, and savings in health care costs that could be expected as a result of the provision.³

Moreover, this provision of the Affordable Care Act reflects a strong policy on the part of the federal government, stretching back at least a quarter of a century, of promoting breastfeeding,

In light of the legislative concerns motivating this provision of the Fair Labor Standards Act (FLSA), and the strong federal public policy in favor of breastfeeding promotion, we strongly urge this Committee to expand the requirements of H.R.S. §378-10 to ensure that employers provide breastfeeding women with an appropriate space in their place of employment to express their breast milk.

SUBJECT: HB2228 HD1 Relating to breast-feeding in the workplace

POSITION: SUPPORT

Testimony:

Chair Keith-Agaran, Vice-Chair Rhoads, Members of the Committee:

I am testifying for the League of Women Voters of Hawaii. Thank you for hearing HB 2228.

The League of Women Voters of Hawaii supports HB 2228, which would require employers to provide a clean and private location for new mothers to express breast milk and to post signs informing employees of their right to breastfeed in the workplace.

New mothers are faced with difficult choices when returning to the workplace, including the ability to continue breastfeeding. This is a very important issue for young women and we want to support them as they build new families.

The health benefits of breast milk for both infants and mothers have long been established. According to the US Department of Health and Human Services Office on Women's Health, breastfeeding can help improve an infant's immune system, protecting her from germs and illness. It may also prevent illnesses such as ear infections, stomach viruses, asthma, obesity, types 1 and 2 diabetes, childhood leukemia, and some respiratory infections.

Mothers also benefit from breastfeeding, as it lowers the risk of breast and ovarian cancer, type 2 diabetes, and reduces post partum depression. These Health benefits cannot be overlooked

Federal law requires that employers with more than 50 employees provide reasonable break time for employees to breastfeed as well as a private and clean space for expressing breast milk, other than a bathroom. HB 2228 would expand this requirement to an employer of smaller size, therefore benefiting more of Hawaii's working mothers. We hope that eventually all employers provide private, clean and safe places to do this.

The bill would also require employers to post information visible to employees about their right to express breast milk at work.

Thank you for the opportunity to testify

Please support bill HB2228. Breastfeeding has numerous benefits for mother and child in both the short term and long term. Providing increased access to privacy for pumping in a clean environment will facilitate a healthier workforce and community.
