Comments:

The national primary election season has dramatically shown us all just what damage the Citizens United decision as done to our democracy. Both parties have increasingly outsourced their message to groups that have no obligation to either stick to the party line or report how much is being contributed and by whom. If it takes an amendment to the Constitution to codify what everyone knows -- that corporations aren't people -- then that's what must be done.

I urge our Congressional delegation to do what they can to push this effort forward.

Thank you for the opportunity to submit testimony.
