I. Background and Summary

This section shall clearly and concisely summarize and highlight the contents of the request in such a way as to provide the State Legislature with a broad understanding of the request. Please include the following:

1. A brief description of the applicant's background;

Special Olympics Hawai'i, Inc. (SOHI) is a non-profit 501(c)(3) organization dedicated to transforming the lives of people with intellectual disabilities (ID) through programming in sports, health, education and community building. SOHI's mission is to provide year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for children and adults with intellectual disabilities, giving them continuing opportunities to develop physical fitness, demonstrate courage, experience joy and participate in a sharing of gifts, skills, and friendship with their families, other Special Olympics athletes and the community.

Using sports as a catalyst, people with ID share their gifts and talents throughout the island to create a more welcoming and inclusive society by removing injustice, isolation, and intolerance. SOHI envisions a world where people with ID lead healthy, vibrant lives grounded in ongoing sports and physical activity, sound nutrition, and a deeply held conviction to improve, compete, achieve and demonstrate their personal best.

With the support of more than 1,534 coaches and chaperones and 9,971 volunteers, SOHI offers nine, Olympic-type sports and more than 45 competitions to over 3,808 children and adults in Hawai'i throughout the year. All services provided by SOHI are free of charge to athletes and their families.

2. The goals and objectives related to the request;

SOHI plans to construct a new Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility, and Fitness Building on 2.45 acres of land leased from the Department of Hawaiian Home Lands and adjacent to the Kroc Center in Kapolei. The new facilities are estimated to cost approximately $8.5 million, and will provide SOHI with a permanent home designed to consolidate agency programs at one strategically-located site to directly benefit individuals with intellectual disabilities, with particular focus on low- to moderate-income individuals residing along the Leeward Coast.

Goals of the Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility and Fitness Building include the following:

- Goal 1 – Accommodate expansion of programs to meet low- to moderate-income individuals with ID, particularly those residing in Leeward communities;
- Goal 2 – Address obesity and other health issues among participants; and
- Goal 3 – Help participants develop essential sports skills, competition readiness and level of health and fitness to prepare for success in Special Olympics and beyond.

A priority of the new facility will be to expand the principles of our Healthy Athletes program from a series of single events to a steady presence in the lives of athletes and their families, including a focus on follow-up care, wellness opportunities, access and education.

The long-term goal of the new facilities is to become the training ground for creating a world of inclusion for everyone through sport, serving as a model for young people throughout Hawai'i to learn lessons and experiences that reinforce human dignity and universal equality.

3. The public purpose and need to be served;

Individuals with intellectual disabilities desperately need inclusive facilities not only dedicated to sports training, health, education, and wellness, but which also serve as a venue for families to unite and become part of a caring community. SOHI has always utilized existing sports and fitness facilities for its programs, many of which are difficult to find as they are heavily used by sports organizations such as AYSO and Little League.

Why sports? Research indicates that sports can be an effective vehicle through which to change global perceptions that often limit the potential and abilities of people with ID. SOHI provides opportunities that empower people with ID to achieve their personal best in all facets of life, and to demonstrate excellence through sports, while improving levels of physical fitness.

After exhausting possibilities of purchasing or leasing space on a long-term basis, SOHI's Board determined that constructing new facilities in close proximity to a rapidly growing service area in West Oahu would be the most effective way to reduce occupancy costs relative to its budget, stabilize overall costs of agency services, and direct more contract funding to client-based programs.

Special Olympics is the ONLY sports program available for children and adults with intellectual disabilities. Individuals with ID are generally precluded from participating in organized interscholastic sports, contrary to laws or rules that say otherwise, and many will never be invited or encouraged to join JV or Varsity sports teams. Without Special Olympics, opportunities for health and wellness through quality sports training and competitions would be virtually nonexistent for people with intellectual disabilities in Hawai'i.

The number of participants and their families residing in the Leeward district has increased over the years. Approximately 34% of all DOE Special Education students on Oahu reside in communities along the Leeward Coast, representing over 4,000 students. By constructing the new Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility and Fitness Building in Kapolei, SOHI will be able to offer programs and support services statewide, with a focus on the Leeward community where access to facilities and financial resources are least available.

According to the National Health and Nutrition Examination Survey, 86.2% of teens with Down syndrome and 67.1% with autism are overweight or obese. Childhood obesity represents a significant threat to the long-term health of those with ID, particularly since overweight teens have a greater chance of becoming obese as adults, leading to an increased risk of the most prevalent chronic diseases. Obesity also puts children and adults at a higher risk for developing secondary health problems, including type 2 diabetes, asthma, cardiovascular disease, orthopedic problems, sleep apnea, breast and colon cancers, stroke, osteoarthritis, and gynecological problems.

Adults with ID have a 40% greater risk of developing preventable secondary health conditions compared to the general population, with a life expectancy of only 66.1 years compared to the general population at 74 – 76.5 years. In addition, health screenings conducted as part of SOHI's Healthy Athlete Program indicate that individuals with ID often receive substandard health care or virtually no health care at all.

- 44% suffer from gum disease compared to less than 15% of the general population;
- 27% have untreated tooth decay;
- 29% have low bone density;
- 38% fail hearing tests; and
- 11% have never had an eye exam.

These individuals need permanent facilities where they can engage in fitness, training and sports activities that help them avoid becoming sedentary and isolated, leading to obesity and further health complications. The new Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility and Fitness Building will encourage children, teens, and adults with ID to maintain a healthy lifestyle interwoven within SOHI's sports programming so that health becomes an equal, necessary component to achieving their fullest potential both on and off the field. The new facilities will enable SOHI to play a critical role in improving the health of individuals with ID and well as the overall health of local communities by conducting health screenings and initiating "Training for Life" programs.

The new facilities will enable SOHI to extend more of its programming to a larger percentage of people with ID, many of whom still struggle to gain independence, acceptance, and inclusion into societies that have low expectations of what they can achieve. Children with ID face daily challenges of coping with social rejection and isolation from peers. Most young people indicate that they would not spend time with someone with intellectual disabilities outside of school, with only 10% in the United States reporting that they have a friend with ID.

Children with ID are four times as likely to be bullied at school compared to other children, are 4-10 times more likely to become victims of crime than those without disabilities, and are at a greatly elevated risk of sexual abuse. Those with ID are twice as likely to drop out of school, and twice as many end up living in poverty. Older youth with ID face higher levels of rejection in school, lower acceptability by peers, and feelings of loneliness due to a lack of inclusion in regular education classes. Through new inclusive facilities, SOHI seeks to reverse these trends.

Families of individuals with ID also need a special, positive place to connect and become part of a caring community. Research indicates that parents who frequently attend competitions experience less child-related stress as they witness their children's capabilities and feel pride in their accomplishments. More than two-thirds of parents report that Special Olympics helped raise their expectations for their sons and daughters. Seventy-five percent of siblings reported that Special Olympics had a positive impact on their families and their relationship with their brothers or sisters.

Through success in sports, athletes with ID facilitate community acceptance resulting in opportunities for friendship, employment, and inclusion in other sport and social activities. Less than 10% of adults with ID are employed throughout the nation, however, the percentage increases to 38% for those participating in Special Olympics programs.

4. Describe the target population to be served; and
Special Olympics Hawai'i currently serves over 3,808 children and adults with ID statewide throughout the year, with the support of 9,971 volunteers and 1,534 coaches and chaperones. Special Olympics Games and Competitions are targeted to persons in Hawai'i who are eight years of age and older and have been identified by an agency or professional as having one of the following conditions: mental retardation, cognitive delays as measured by formal assessment, or significant learning or vocational problems due to a cognitive delay that requires or has required specially designed instruction.

Well over 55% of all SOHI participants are adults with intellectual disabilities who meet HUD's definition of severely disabled. In addition, at least 75% of the participants served qualify as low- to moderate-income according to 2015 HUD guidelines. Twenty-three of the public schools within SOHI's targeted communities in the Leeward District are Title I schools, with a high percentage of students considered low- to moderate-income based on student participation in the Free and Reduced-Price Lunch Program, ranging from 48% - 90%.

The State DOE indicates that nearly 4,000 Special Education students attend school complexes surrounding the target area, including Campbell-Kapolei, Nanakuli-Waianae, and Pearl City-Waipahu. Public schools within these targeted communities and contiguous neighborhoods report a high percentage of students with Native Hawaiian ancestry, most significantly over 50% and some as high as 95%. Nearly one-third of SOHI participants are of Native Hawaiian descent, with over 300 current participants residing along the Waianae Coast.

According to the Department of Health, a minimum of 15,000 children and adults in Hawai'i meet SOHI's eligibility requirements, with 5,030 between the ages of 6-21. Upon completion of the Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility and Fitness Building, SOHI anticipates a significant increase in participants with ID, with the largest percentage increase among participants residing along the Waianae Coast. Within the first year following construction, SOHI estimates serving approximately 400 athletes and families, an increase of 100 participants over those currently being served.

5. Describe the geographic coverage.

Located on 2.45 acres of land adjacent to the Kroc Center in Kapolei, the new facilities will enable Special Olympics Hawai'i to more effectively deliver its programs and support services statewide in one location, as well as provide low- to moderate-income residents of Leeward communities desperately-needed access to sports training and health and wellness programs.

IV. Experience and Capability

A. Necessary Skills and Experience

The applicant shall demonstrate that it has the necessary skills, abilities, knowledge of, and experience relating to the request. State your experience and appropriateness for providing the service proposed in this application.

The applicant shall also provide a listing of verifiable experience of related projects or contracts for the most recent three years that are pertinent to the request.

For nearly 50 years, Special Olympics Hawai'i has offered year-round sports training and athletic competition in a variety of Olympic-type sports for children and adults with intellectual disabilities. SOHI's programs and services have helped foster increased understanding and integration of people with intellectual disabilities in the general community.

SOHI's Board and Capital Campaign Cabinet are well suited for this project, including Board Finance Committee member Jeff Higashi, who is Senior Vice President at First Hawaiian Bank., as well as Tayne Sekimura, the CFO at Hawaiian Electric Company.

The capital campaign cabinet is comprised of leaders within the business community who offer a wealth of experience in bringing capital improvement projects to completion. The cabinet is spearheaded board member Tim Brauer, who is the CEO at James Campbell Company and has extensive experience in real estate investments, asset management, development, and marketing.

SOHI is currently a subrecipient for a $1,000,000 CDBG grant to complete the infrastructure work at the new site in Kapolei. In addition, Special Olympics Hawai'i has been the recipient of grants through Special Olympics, Inc. for Project Unify and a Department of Defense project, both that received federal funding. Since both were federally funded programs, SOHI is familiar with timely reporting and the documentation necessary to receive allocated funds, as well as meet all federal requirements.

On the national level, the excellence of its programs is illustrated by Special Olympics recently being named Top Disability Organization in the Harris Poll 28th Annual EquiTrend Study. This study was based on consumer responses of the strongest brands in nearly 100 categories across multiple industries, measuring an organization's brand health over time based on familiarity, quality, and purchase consideration to determine equity ratings for each brand.

In addition, Special Olympics Hawai'i has been given a 4-star Charity Rating from Charity Navigator for its financial health, accountability, and transparency. A 4-star rating means that the organization is exceptional, exceeding industry standards and outperforming most charities in its Cause.

B. Facilities

The applicant shall provide a description of its facilities and demonstrate its adequacy in relation to the request. If facilities are not presently available, describe plans to secure facilities.

Special Olympics Hawai'i does not currently have a permanent facility for its programs, events and activities. Over the years, SOHI has utilized existing sports and fitness facilities, many of which are difficult to find as they are heavily used by other sports organizations such as AYSO and Little League.

The construction of new facilities at one strategically located site will enable SOHI to more effectively fulfill its mission through the consolidation of agency programs and sustaining of key services from a centralized administrative locale. In well-designed facilities, SOHI will be able to use current resources optimally, thereby improving the health and fitness of children, teens and adults with ID, particularly for the most vulnerable, low- to moderate-income individuals through the joy of sports.

Once completed, the new Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility, and Fitness Building will enable SOHI to remove inefficiencies resulting from the necessity of accessing multiple sites. The new permanent facilities will reduce occupancy costs, thereby stabilizing overall agency service costs and allowing SOHI to direct more funding to client-based programs.

The new facilities will also provide SOHI with a centralized training location from which to host clinics for volunteers, coaches, doctors, and families, rather than at multiple venues throughout the island. The new Program and Training Center, Multi-Purpose Facility, and Fitness Building will enable SOHI to offer participants a permanent and inclusive training and competition environment that encourages positive health behaviors, reduces risky behavior, improves self-efficacy and enhances self-advocacy among individuals with ID.
