About OHA

Vision

“Ho‘oulu Lāhui Aloha” - To Raise a Beloved Nation. OHA’s vision statement blends the thoughts and leadership of both King Kalākaua, and his sister, Queen Lili‘uokalani. Both faced tumultuous times as we do today, and met their challenges head on. “Ho‘oulu Lāhui” was King Kalākaua’s motto. “Aloha” expresses the high values of Queen Lili‘uokalani.

Mission Statement

To mālama (protect) Hawai‘i’s people and environmental resources and OHA’s assets, toward ensuring the perpetuation of the culture, the enhancement of lifestyle and the protection of entitlements of Native Hawaiians, while enabling the building of a strong and healthy Hawaiian people and nation, recognized nationally and internationally.

Overview

The Office of Hawaiian Affairs is a public agency with a high degree of autonomy. OHA is responsible for improving the well-being of Native Hawaiians.

OHA is governed by a Board of Trustees made up of nine members who are elected statewide for four-year terms to set policy for the agency.

OHA is administered by a Ka Pouhana (Chief Executive Officer) who is appointed by the Board of Trustees to oversee a staff of about 170 people.

Our Focus

Our Hawaiian ancestors understood that the well-being of our community rested upon the inter-relationship of how we conduct ourselves, steward the islands we call home, and fulfill the responsibility of caring for our families, all within the physical and spiritual realms. They also understood that successfully maintaining lōkahi meant careful observation, knowledge gathering, and informed decision making to achieve pono. OHA is striving to embrace this time-tested wisdom through our Strategic Plan.

JOINT MESSAGE FROM THE BOARD OF TRUSTEES CHAIRPERSON
AND KA POUHANA/CEO

ALOHA MAI KĀKOU,

AS YOU MAY ALREADY KNOW, OHA does three things: provide resources; advocate for Native Hawaiians on a range of issues; and facilitate collaboration among key stakeholders. We make a difference in our beneficiaries' lives through grants, research, advocacy, community engagement—really the breadth of all we do.

One year ago, we pledged to foster a sense of unity between the Board of Trustees and the administration. In this time, we've had many successes—such as the return of Kalani'ōpu'u's treasured mahiole and 'ahu 'ula, which leveraged community and international partnerships. And like any organization, we have faced challenges. While we can't avoid all political controversy, we can say with confidence that together we have developed a focused, consistent, data-driven approach to meeting our beneficiaries' needs, all while promoting organizational integrity and unity.

As our Annual Report illustrates, we continue to make inroads on our three main goals, and we have the data to back this claim. We don't just tally grant awards—we track how they benefit the community and what impact they have. This document shows how we're working toward our strategic goals and their significance to the Hawaiian community. You'll see examples of shared goals being carried out by community leaders passionate about their work to advance the lāhui.

Looking ahead, the Board of Trustees adopted in October a fiscal sustainability plan.

In 2015 we faced a sharp increase in legal fees, a market downturn in the third quarter and a rise in fringe benefit costs. Given these circumstances, our Board and Administration came together this past year for a series of financial workshops, where we plotted a future course for OHA's finances.

The fiscal sustainability plan brings into sharp focus our greatest obligation—ensuring that our organization's finances remain sound. From our perspective, this plan puts our organization on a path to fulfilling its responsibility—to future generations of Hawaiians. Simply put, the plan ensures that OHA will remain solvent for at least the next half century.

The plan strengthens policies and guidelines essential to maintaining the financial accountability of our assets when making spending decisions necessary for OHA to fulfill its mission.

It is an obligation that we are taking seriously as our Board and Administration approach our new fiscal sustainability plan with urgency and unity, demonstrating a firm commitment from top leadership at OHA to being responsible stewards of our people's trust.

Mālama pono,

Robert K. Lindsey Jr.
Chairperson, Hawai'i Island Trustee

CULTURE

NAINOA THOMPSON RECONNECTING TO CULTURE AND CONNECTING WITH THE WORLD

IN 1980, NAINOA THOMPSON became the first Hawaiian in 600 years to use ancestral wisdom to navigate the voyaging canoe Hōkūle‘a to Tahiti and back.

The success made Hōkūle‘a an iconic symbol of the Hawaiian Renaissance and Thompson a source of inspiration for others hoping to reclaim ‘ike kūpuna and revive Native Hawaiian culture.

Thompson, now president of the Polynesian Voyaging Society and in the midst of Hōkūle‘a’s Mālama Honua Worldwide Voyage, says he’s honored to see so many of today’s young people taking an interest in their history. “Navigation is just one part of this cultural renaissance. We’re also seeing it in music, dance, language and education,” Thompson says.

“This reconnection to the identity of our ancestors ultimately leads to a strong self-worth and pride in the native Hawaiian people, and I believe this is the foundation for the health and well-being of our people.”

Mālama Honua has allowed the Hōkūle‘a crew to collect stories of hope from around the world, including how indigenous communities in Hawai‘i and elsewhere are turning to traditional practices to reverse the environmental damage caused by human activity.

“We’ve seen in so many places this growing awareness of what humankind is doing to earth and how indigenous knowledge brought together with science is providing solutions,” Thompson says. “We’ve also seen a shifting of values where restoration is more valuable than consumption and the need to act is so crucial.”

Thompson’s passion and high-profile advocacy for ocean sustainability has contributed to Hawai‘i’s emergence as a global leader in conservation issues. “The world is turning to Hawai‘i as a classroom for cultural and environmental sustainability,” he said. “It is important to rediscover our traditions, bring them forward to the 21st century to address today’s needs for conservation. Protecting our indigenous culture will help us develop the sailplan for tomorrow.”

CLEARLY, the preservation and perpetuation of, and education in, culture is central to an enduring and healthy people.

We have sponsored and held several Hawaiian cultural events, to touch thousands of people across the state:

1,940

attendees to 47 I Mana Ka Lāhui workshops on six islands

58,439

attendees to Culture-focused 'Ahahui events in 2016

IN ADDITION, there are other cultural assets OHA has contributed to in 2016:

$500,000

to help Aloha Kuamo'o 'Āina acquire for stewardship the Kuamo'o battlefield in south Kona

3 directories

OHA is updating its cultural directories; Ola Nā Iwi: Directory of Hawaiian Artists and Cultural Resources; Ku Mai ka Po'e Hula: Directory of Hula Resources; Nā Lima Mikioi: Directory of Weavers and Fiber Artists

OHA USED TRADITIONAL AND SOCIAL MEDIA to bring Kalani'ōpu'u's story to a 21st Century audience:

87

Facebook posts reached 2,207,535 unique users and got 3,507,486 impressions.

people around the world watched the powhiri ceremony at Te Papa through Facebook Live.

ALI'I KALANI'ŌPU'U'S ROYAL GARMENTS RETURNED

IN 1779, THE CHIEF OF HAWAII ISLAND, ali'i Kalani'ōpu'u, greeted captain James Cook after his ship made port in Kealakekua Bay. As a demonstration of goodwill, Kalani'ōpu'u gifted his 'ahu'ula (feathered cloak) and mahiōle (feathered helmet) to Captain Cook. These and other treasures from around the Pacific were taken back to England on Cook's ships.

In a partnership between OHA, the National Museum of New Zealand Te Papa Tongarewa and Bishop Museum, the storied 'ahu'ula and mahiōle were returned to the Hawaiian people in March 2016, after 237 years away. This return is particularly significant, as museums seldom release items, especially those with such significance and artisanship as the 'ahu'ula and mahiōle, to indigenous people, and may represent a growing understanding of indigenous rights over cultural assets.

Highlights from the return ceremonies included a powhiri (a Māori ceremony) at Te Papa, where the heritage pieces were given over to the Hawaiians. In addition, a private ceremony—conducted entirely in Māori and 'ōlelo Hawai'i—welcomed the 'ahu'ula and mahiōle to where they will be housed at Bishop Museum. OHA was named to hold the items in trust for the Native Hawaiian people.

local, national, and international news stories aired, reaching hundreds of thousands of viewers on television, radio, and online.

GOVERNANCE & EDUCATION

MELODY KAPILIALOHA MACKENZIE

KNOWING OUR RIGHTS HELPS US MOVE FORWARD WITH A COMMON UNDERSTANDING

“UNDERSTANDING OUR RIGHTS IS IMPORTANT, so that we know we have options,” explains Melody Kapilialoha MacKenzie, professor, editor, and director of Ka Huli Ao Center for Excellence in Native Hawaiian Law and the University of Hawai‘i at Mānoa. “We need to understand our histories, how our self-determination has been suppressed. There are possibilities to interact with other peoples and nations. Consequently, we need to be educated about each of our possible paths forward.

“These decisions affect not just Native Hawaiians but all Hawai‘i.”

In addition to her work at the center, MacKenzie recently edited Native Hawaiian Law: A Treatise, an update of the 1991 Native Hawaiian Rights Handbook. She began work on the treatise in 2000, and “one of the reasons it has taken so long to publish is that there has been a sea change, internationally, in the way governments view indigenous rights,” she notes. “Our claims are being taken more seriously, especially in relation to traditional and customary practices, land ownership, and natural and cultural resources.”

Coupled with this global change of perspective is the work Hawaiians have been doing on their own. She spent much of February at the Native Hawaiian ‘Aha, “observing what was going on and acting as a resource when asked” as participants crafted a Native Hawaiian Constitution. “There were so many obstacles to overcome in the process, and so many different perspectives—but the participants still had respect and aloha for each other’s positions.

“Going forward, I hope we can maintain that level of respect and aloha,” MacKenzie says. “More important than a particular form of governance structure is the ability to give aloha and respect—and go forward together as a people.”

IN RECENT YEARS, OHA has been making greater use of digital media, to create and support an educated and engaged 21st century Lāhui. OHA's 2016 multimedia efforts have resulted in:

PAA KE AUPUNI

The Reel History of Hawai'i

OHA DEBUTS 'PAA KE AUPUNI: THE REEL HISTORY OF HAWAI'I'

"PAA KE AUPUNI: THE REEL HISTORY OF HAWAI'I" is an animated feature produced by OHA that endeavors to have Hawaiians tell their own story, while remaining steadfast--pa'a--to the facts.

The film opens in traditional times, setting the stage for the era of Kamehameha and ends at the purported "annexation" of Hawai'i in the late 19th century. "We wanted to come up with something that had utility for both Hawaiians and non-Hawaiians alike, a historical primer that could be used in a variety of settings," said producer Ryan Gonzalez. "How can we get non-Hawaiians to support Hawaiians? How can we better engage Hawaiians? It all starts with education and knowing the facts."

"Pa'a Ke Aupuni" evolved out of a combination of group discussions conducted by trustees and community members, a 2013 Board of Trustees motion that committed OHA to providing education to the Hawaiian community and general public on key points in Hawaiian history and community feedback. It debuted in Honolulu on July 31, 2015. In addition, OHA hosted 24 screenings across the pae 'āina that were attended by almost 1,500 people. It also aired on KGMB and KHNL. Tens of thousands of people have watched this ground-breaking film, and it continues to be available online, on digital cable, and for download.

HEALTH & 'ĀINA

DIANE PALOMA NATIVE HAWAIIAN HEALTH IS GROUNDED IN THE LAND

WITH A PASSION FOR HEALTHCARE and a love of Hawaiian culture, Diane Paloma, PhD, always knew she wanted to find a way to bridge the two to improve the overall ola pono (well-being) of Native Hawaiians.

“Some of the biggest challenges are giving individuals and communities the opportunity to be healthy,” Paloma points out. “Making healthy choices is more of a luxury than a right.”

For the past decade, Paloma has led the Native Hawaiian Health Program at The Queen’s Medical Center, which aims at eliminating health disparities between Hawaiians and other ethnic groups. One successful strategy has been empowering communities to develop culturally relevant health initiatives—which can transform entire communities, especially rural ones.

“One of the best things about working in rural areas is they take ownership over progress and that fuels the sustainability of programs that will endure over changes in funding, leadership and organizations,” Paloma says.

The Native Hawaiian Health Program has also been partnering with other organizations, including OHA, committed to a similar mission, with the recognition that improving Hawaiian health also helps Hawai’i. “By raising the health status of Native Hawaiians, we raise the bar for everyone,” Paloma says. “Our health status becomes less of a burden upon the entire system and we can all thrive together.”

ECONOMIC SELF-SUFFICIENCY

MAILE MEYER OUR NETWORKS AND INDIGENEITY GIVES US ECONOMIC STRENGTH

FOR MAILE MEYER, FOUNDER OF NĀ MEA HAWAI'I and passionate arts advocate, economic self-sufficiency is about more than just finances.

“Economic self-sufficiency isn’t about numbers of hours or amounts of money; it’s more focused on time, what you can do with the time,” she notes. “Our people need choice and the ability to define their own sense of ‘self-sufficiency,’ where our people feel empowered by what they do.”

In her work, “I try to provide a space for Hawaiian producers, artists, authors, teachers, musicians, and practitioners, to exist and derive support in all forms,” she says.

This support has involved payment for goods and services, camaraderie, work space, child care—and more. “Hawaiians are net makers, not ladder builders. Our economies involved relationships, exchanges, genealogy, ‘āina, resources, expertise. Of course, money is a resource, but it’s too one dimensional.”

She envisions a return to indigenous values that “amplify the intelligence of aloha,” to serve all of Hawai’i, and “accepting outcomes that aren’t just derivatives of personal gain at the expense of others—the land, water, air, plants and animals, people, all life forms sharing our planet. A bottom line that ensures there is something for all stakeholders, is indigenous thinking to me.

“Personal gain should be a goal of the past, shared resources is survival for our planet,” she notes. “We should try to define economic self-sufficiency in the oldest ways possible, not the newest. Hawaiians aren’t going anywhere: we are increasing in number and mindset, and we have a chance to model something that is rooted to this place.”
