HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES

STATE OF HAWAII
STATE CAPITOL, ROOM 027
415 SOUTH BERETANIA STREET
HONOLULU, HAWAII 96813

January 15, 2014

Aloha,

In the 55 years since statehood, Hawaii has gone from a sleepy territorial outpost to a vibrant cultural, business and civic center, unique among all of the 50 states in our nation. During this period, we have witnessed the ebbing of the industrial age and the explosive birth of the age of information, where technology has transformed the world as we knew it and reinvented all that we do.

Guiding the state through this whirlwind of technological, social and political change has been a monumental task, a task no single individual alone could have accomplished. But Hawaii has been fortunate in having citizens who answered the call to serve and take on the challenge of elected office. These individuals understood—above everything else—the nature of our roots and uniqueness. They had a keen understanding of where Hawaii had come from and the vision and commitment to lead us into a future firmly anchored by the spirit of aloha.

We owe a lot to these men and women, these legislators who dedicated their careers and lives to ensuring our collective future. To them, I say mahalo nui loa for all that you've given and for all that you've done.

Mahalo,

Joseph M. Souki
Speaker of the House
