Re: Supplement to Report No. 20-06, Report on Special and Revolving Fund Accounts with Inactive or Excess Balances, Report No. 20-08

Dear President Kouchi and Speaker Saiki:

Please find attached a copy of Report No. 20-08, Supplement to Report No. 20-06, Report on Special and Revolving Fund Accounts with Inactive or Excess Balances.

After receiving feedback about the Report No. 20-06, we sent questionnaires to departments on May 13 about their respective accounts, requesting, among other things, that they confirm the accuracy of the account balances we downloaded from the State's Data Mart system and provide the department's position as to whether moneys in each account can be transferred to the General Fund. We also received guidance from the Department of the Attorney General as to whether there are legal restrictions that prohibit the Legislature from transferring moneys in the accounts to the General Fund. The attached report is based on the responses we have received.

This report and others we will be issuing in response to the COVID-19 pandemic are accessible at: <https://auditor.hawaii.gov/covid19-related-reports/>.

If you have any questions about the report, please contact me.

Very truly yours,

Leslie H. Kondo

COVID-19 SPECIAL PROJECTS

Supplement to Report No. 20-06, Report on Special and Revolving Fund Accounts with Inactive or Excess Balances

More than $483 million in excess moneys may be available to be transferred from 57 special and revolving fund accounts to the General Fund without adversely affecting programs.

Introduction

In Report No. 20-06, Report on Special and Revolving Fund Accounts with Inactive or Excess Balances, issued on May 7, 2020, we identified $2.28 billion within 257 accounts associated with departments' special and revolving funds that either had no financial activity during the past five fiscal years (FY2015 through FY2019) or had fiscal year ending balances that were significantly more than necessary to support the associated programs, based on the funds' average outflows over the past three fiscal years.¹ Those special and ¹ We used data that we downloaded from the State's Data Mart system, which contains the financial data that departments input into the Department of Accounting and General Services' Financial Accounting and Management Information System (FAMIS). FAMIS is the State's official accounting record.

FUND TYPES

are used to account for revenues earmarked for particular purposes and from which expenditures are made for those purposes.

REVOLVING FUNDS

such as loan programs, are often established with an appropriation of seed money from the General Fund and are then replenished through the repayment of the loans.

Both fund types must demonstrate the capacity to be self-sustaining.

revolving fund accounts appear to hold excess moneys that may be available to be transferred without adversely affecting the programs supported by the accounts.

In this supplement, we provide additional information about the accounts, specifically whether the moneys in the accounts can be transferred to the State’s General Fund or otherwise repurposed. The information is self-reported, pulled from responses to questionnaires emailed to departments for each of their respective accounts.

Departments were asked to provide the balance per department accounting records as of March 31, 2020; the amount that must be retained to support the program in FY2021; the projected amount of outflows for FY2021; and if moneys cannot be transferred, an explanation as to the basis for that position, among other things. We received responses to the questionnaires from all departments and the University of Hawaii; however, the Department of Business, Economic Development, and Tourism did not return the questionnaires for the accounts that they hold.

Potential Funds Available for Transfer: $483.6 million

We also obtained the Department of the Attorney General’s (Attorney General) guidance as to whether there are legal restrictions that may prohibit transferring moneys from the accounts to the General Fund. For accounts identified by the Attorney General that cannot be swept, we report “N/A” in the “Potential Funds Available for Transfer” column. Where the Attorney General’s determination that moneys can be transferred to the General Fund differed from a department’s position, we defer to the Attorney General and report an amount in the “Potential Funds Available for Transfer” column, if applicable. The Attorney General’s guidance is attached to this supplement.

Where a department asserts that none of the moneys can be transferred because they are needed for FY2021 operations, we report the amount that the Legislature can transfer as zero. The report’s quick turnaround time prevented us from independently analyzing the basis for the departments’ assertions. However, we also include the departments’ projected cash outflow for FY2021 for each account next to the account’s three-year average (FY2017 – FY2019) cash outflow to provide context to the departments’ assertion that all of the moneys are needed to support the program(s) in FY2021.

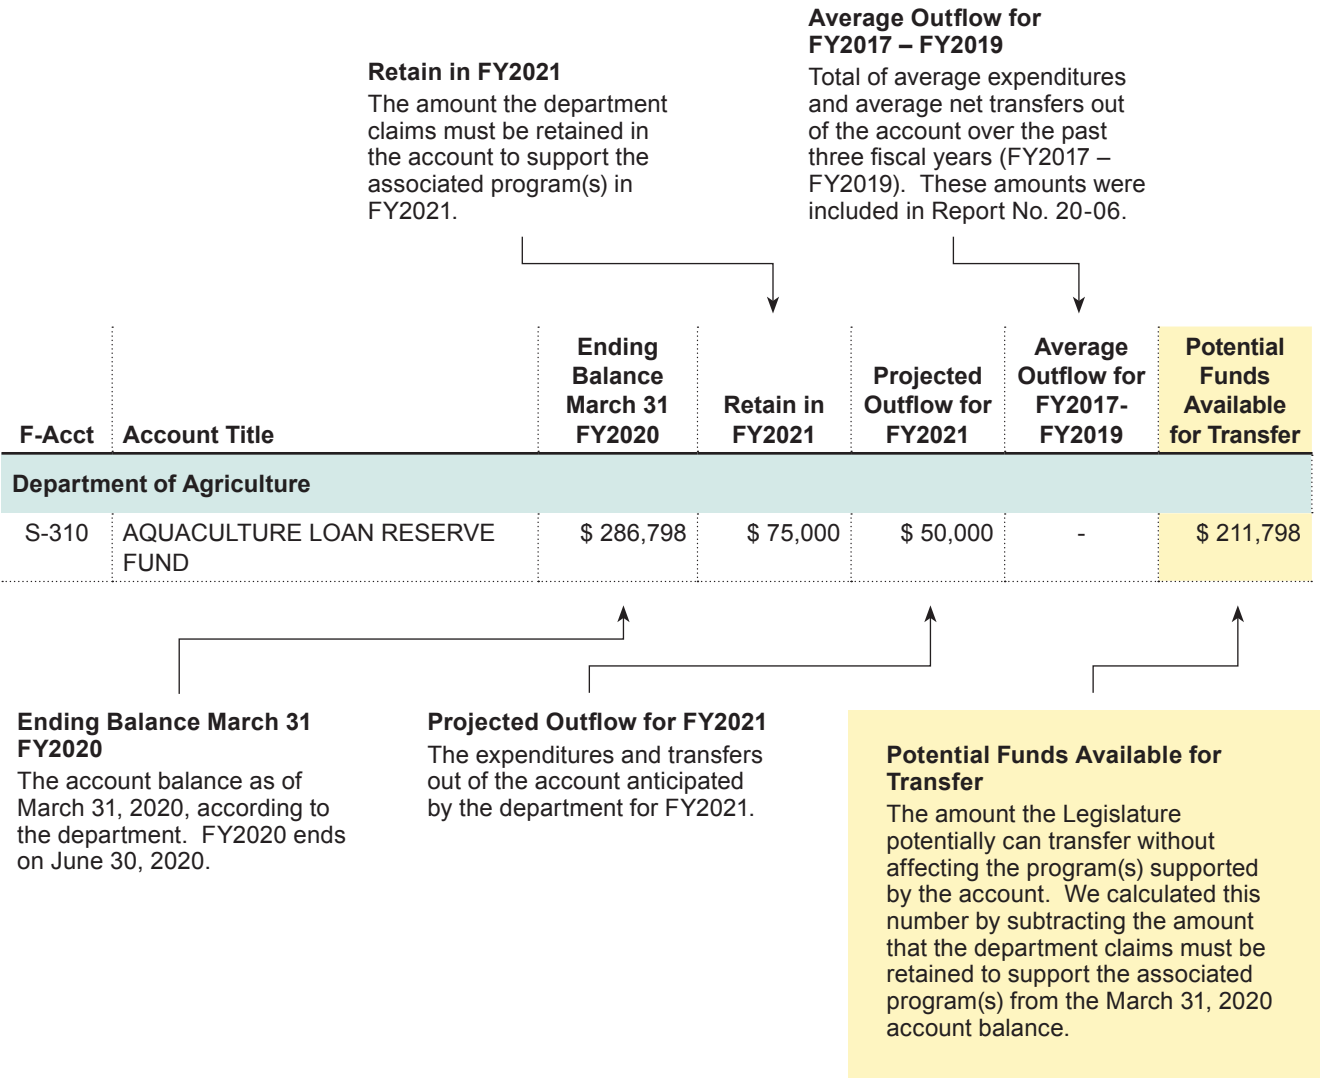

For all other accounts, in the column “Potential Funds Available for Transfer,” we report the difference between the account balance as of March 31, 2020, and the amount the department represents as its projected cash outflows from the account in FY2021. Based on the March 31, 2020, balance, that amount represents the department's estimate of the excess moneys in the account needed to support the program(s) in FY2021.

We note that there are significant differences between departments' projected cash outflows for FY2021 compared against their average outflows over the past three fiscal years. For example, many departments reported significantly higher cash outflows for FY2021, with projected out-flows averaging 181 percent over the previous years' average. While we share the departments' concern about their ability to fund the programs supported by the accounts for future fiscal years, we are also concerned that these reporting differences may be reflective of either a business-as-usual approach to the coming fiscal year or an effort to insulate certain department operations from fiscal challenges ahead.

Re: Transfer of Moneys from Various Special and Revolving Fund Accounts to the General Fund

Dear Mr. Kondo:

This is in response to your request to assess whether there may be legal restrictions that prevent the Legislature from transferring moneys from various special and revolving fund accounts to the general fund. The legality of transfers of non-general funds to the general fund is addressed in Hawaii Insurers Council v. Lingle, 120 Haw. 51, 201 P.3d 564 (2008) (hereinafter "Hawaii Insurers Council").

In Hawaii Insurers Council, special fund moneys derived from regulatory fees that are imposed by an administrative agency pursuant to authority delegated to the agency by the Legislature cannot be transferred to the general fund. The Hawaii Supreme Court determined that this type of transfer violated the separation of powers doctrine because administrative fees and assessments imposed by an administrative agency can only be used for the purpose of providing services to the persons or entities paying such fees. Any other use of the fees would constitute a tax, which can only be imposed by the Legislature.

The source of the money comprising the special fund is important, as it may be determinative as to whether the source of the money is a regulatory fee, a tax, or from a different source. The first prong of the regulatory fee test used by the Hawaii Supreme Court in the Hawaii Insurers Council case is whether the regulatory agency assessed the fee via an administrative rule. If so, the charge is more likely to be regulatory fee than if the money was assessed via a statute enacted by the Legislature. If the fee is statutorily set by the Legislature, the charge is more likely to be a tax. Generally, the Hawaii Insurers Council case does not prohibit the transfer of moneys that are derived from fees set by statute.

May 19, 2020

The second prong of the analysis is to determine whether the moneys collected by a special or revolving fund are service or user fees, rather than regulatory fees. For example, there may be filing fees that are required for a registration renewal or parking fees for a state parking facility. Even if these fees were imposed by an administrative rule, an analysis would have to be performed to determine if such fees would be retained by the special fund or could be transferred to the general fund. The Hawaii Insurers Council case does not prohibit service or user fees from being transferred to the general fund.

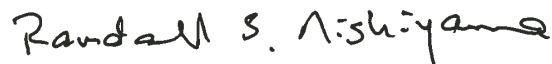

Likewise, the purpose of the transfer is important. The third prong of the foregoing regulatory fee test is whether the moneys are used for a public purpose or to defray regulatory expenses. If the subject moneys are used for a public purpose, then such moneys are more likely to be taxes which may be transferred to the general fund.

Consequently, in distinguishing a regulatory fee from a tax, all of these factors have to be taken into consideration and balanced against a careful analysis of the facts and circumstances of the particular situation.

The results of our analysis are summarized in exhibit 1 (attached).

Please call me at 586-1267 if you have any questions regarding this matter.

Very truly yours,

Randall S. Nishiyama
Deputy Attorney General

Exhibit 1 Transfer of Moneys from Various Special and Revolving Fund Accounts to the General Fund

Assumptions

1. If the account contains federal funds, then it may mean that the federal portion of the account cannot be transferred to the general funds. Federal law may restrict the transfer of federal funds to the general fund.

In particular, airport moneys can only be used for airport purposes. The federal grant assurance accepted by the State Department of Transportation provides that all revenues generated by the airport will be expended for airport purposes. Also, the Federal Aviation Administration administrative regulations provide that use of airport revenues for non-airport purposes is unlawful.

2. If the account contains tax-exempt bond proceeds, then it may mean that all or part of the moneys cannot be transferred. Transfers tax-exempt bond proceeds to the general fund may result in adverse tax consequences to the State.
3. If the account contains moneys pledged to the payment of revenue bonds, it may mean that all or part of the moneys cannot be transferred. Transfers may be prohibited by section 39-62, Hawaii Revised Statutes. Also, the Contracts Clause found in Article I of the United States Constitution ("No State shall . . . pass any . . . Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts . . .") may prohibit any actions that impair the use of moneys pledged for the repayment of bonds for non-bond purposes.
4. If the account contains private donor moneys that specify how such money is to be used, then such moneys cannot be transferred to the general fund. Private donations must be used in a manner consistent with the donor's instructions.
5. If the account contains trust moneys, then such trust moneys cannot be transferred to the general fund. Expenditures of trust moneys are limited to the trust purposes.
6. If the account contains State moneys used to obtain federal matching funds, then the transfer of such moneys would hurt the State's ability to obtain matching federal funds.
