
HOUSE RESOLUTION

APOLOGIZING FOR THE INTERNMENT OF PREDOMINATELY JAPANESE
AMERICANS AT THE HONOULIULI INTERNMENT CAMP DURING WORLD WAR II.

1 WHEREAS, early on December 7, 1941, as the Japanese
2 military attacked Pearl Harbor, government officials began 3 selectively rounding up Hawaii residents suspected of 4 disloyalty; and

5
6 WHEREAS, on February 19, 1942, President Franklin Delano 7 Roosevelt signed Executive Order No. 9066 (EO9066), under which 8 more than 120,000 people of Japanese ancestry were incarcerated 9 in ten concentration camps scattered throughout the western 10 United States and the State of Arkansas during World War II; and

11
12 WHEREAS, EO9066 inflicted upon more than 120,000 Americans 13 and residents of Japanese ancestry a great human cost of 14 abandoned homes, businesses, farms, careers, professional 15 advancements, disruption to family life, and public humiliation; 16 and

17
18 WHEREAS, United States Army General John L. DeWitt, the 19 head of the Western Defense Command, alleged that, while the 20 majority of people of Japanese ancestry living in California
21 were loyal to the United States, many were spies for the Empire
22 of Japan, stating that "the Japanese in this country have more 23 [arms and ammunition] in their possession than our own armed 24 forces"; and

25
26 WHEREAS, General DeWitt informed the Governor of California
27 and the California Legislative Assembly before President 28 Roosevelt signed EO9066, of the plan to intern all people of 29 Japanese ancestry on the West Coast; and

30
31 WHEREAS, in Hawaii, the Honouliuli Internment Camp was a
32 civilian internment camp and a prisoner of war camp with a 33 population of approximately four hundred internees and four 34 thousand prisoners of war over the course of its use; and

1 WHEREAS, roughly eight hundred people were interned and 2 eventually transported to the United States Immigration Station
3 and the Sand Island Detention Camp on Oahu before the Honouliuli
4 Internment Camp was established, and of these internees, nearly 5 all were of Japanese descent; they included influential leaders 6 of the Japanese American community who were educated, were 7 teachers or priests, or had access to means of communication 8 with Japan or to transportation from Hawaii; and 9

10 WHEREAS, while most civilians apprehended in the initial 11 years of World War II would be sent to the mainland to live out
12 the duration of the war in Department of Justice and War
13 Relocation Authority camps, the opening of Honouliuli Internment
14 Camp in March of 1943 provided an alternative to mainland 15 transfer, as the camp was designed for the express purpose of 16 confining internees and prisoners of war for longer periods of 17 time; and
18

19 WHEREAS, during this period, the United States Army issued 20 hundreds of military orders, some of which were applicable only 21 to persons of Japanese ancestry and enemy aliens, for example, 22 people of Japanese ancestry were restricted from residing in 23 certain areas of Oahu and were forcibly removed from their 24 properties; and
25

26 WHEREAS, by the end of World War II, over two thousand 27 people of Japanese ancestry from Hawaii were interned, but 28 despite the suspicion of disloyalty, none of the Japanese 29 American internees from Hawaii were ever found to be guilty of 30 sabotage, espionage, or overt acts against the United States;
31 and
32

33 WHEREAS, nearly forty years after the United States Supreme 34 Court decisions upholding the convictions of Fred Korematsu, Min
35 Yasui, and Gordon Hirabayashi for violations of Civilian
36 Exclusion Order No. 34 (in the case of Korematsu), and curfew
37 (in the cases of Yasui and Hirabayashi), all authorized pursuant 38 to EO9066, it was discovered that officials from the United 39 States Department of War and the United States Department of 40 Justice had altered, destroyed, and withheld information that 41 evidenced the loyalty of the people of Japanese ancestry from 42 the United States Supreme Court in those cases; and

1
2 WHEREAS, on May 24, 2011, Acting Solicitor General Neal
3 Katyal said World War II Solicitor General Charles Fahy, who 4 represented the United States Department of Justice in the 5 Korematsu, Yasui, and Hirabayashi cases, "acted dishonorably" by 6 withholding relevant information; and 7

8 WHEREAS, many attorneys and interns contributed innumerable 9 hours to win a reversal of the original convictions of 10 Korematsu, Yasui, and Hirabayashi in 1983 by filing a petition 11 for writ of error coram nobis on the grounds that fundamental 12 errors and injustice occurred; and 13

14 WHEREAS, in 1980, the United States Congress created the 15 Commission on Wartime Relocation and Internment of Civilians to 16 examine the actions and impact of EO9066. The Commission held 17 twenty days of public hearings, conducted eighteen months of 18 thorough investigation, and published its findings in 1983, 19 which concluded that EO9066 was not justified by "military 20 necessity" but was due to "racial prejudice, wartime hysteria, 21 and a failure of political leadership"; and 22

23 WHEREAS, on August 10, 1988, President Ronald Wilson Reagan
24 signed into law the federal Civil Liberties Act of 1988, finding 25 that EO9066 was not justified by military necessity and, 26 instead, was caused by "racial prejudice, wartime hysteria, and 27 a failure of political leadership"; and 28

29 WHEREAS, the federal Civil Liberties Act of 1988 apologized 30 on behalf of the people of the United States for the forced 31 exclusion, mass removal, and incarceration of Americans and 32 permanent residents of Japanese ancestry during World War II,
33 and the act also provided for restitution to those individuals 34 of Japanese ancestry who were incarcerated; and 35

36 WHEREAS, given recent national events, it is all the more 37 important to learn from the mistakes of the past and to ensure 38 that such an assault on freedom will never again happen to any 39 community in the United States; and 40

41 WHEREAS, the year 2020 marks the 76th anniversary of the 42 Supreme Court of the United States' decisions in the Japanese

1 American incarceration cases, and while the Supreme Court
 2 ordered Mitsuye Endo released from incarceration, it denied, in 3 Korematsu v. United States, that EO9066 reflected racial 4 prejudice and upheld EO9066 in light of the "strategic 5 imperative" to keep the west coast secure from invasion; now, 6 therefore,

8 BE IT RESOLVED by the House of Representatives of the 9 Thirtieth Legislature of the State of Hawaii, Regular Session of 10 2020, that the Legislature apologizes to all Americans of 11 Japanese ancestry for its past actions in support of the unjust
 12 exclusion, removal, and incarceration of Japanese Americans
 13 during World War II, and for its failure to support and defend 14 the civil rights and civil liberties of Japanese Americans 15 during this period; and

17 BE IT FURTHER RESOLVED that a certified copy of this 18 Resolution be transmitted to the Governor of the State of 19 Hawaii.
