Bill No. and Title: House Bill No. 188, Relating to the Room Confinement of Children at Detention and Shelter Facilities

Purpose: Limits the circumstances under which children and minors at secure detention or shelters may be subject to room confinement, and specifies the conditions and time limits for which room confinement may be imposed.

Judiciary's Position: Strongly Support

Over the past decade, Hawai'i's juvenile justice system has undergone a major philosophical shift toward evidence-based and trauma responsive approaches for holding youth accountable for their conduct. In keeping with our significant advances in how we handle youth, facilities' reliance on room confinement to control youth must also change their approach. Both research and experience establish that any perceived brief benefits of room confinement obscures the fact that room confinement is not an effective deterrent for misbehavior nor does it give youth the skills needed to behave differently in the future.

Long periods of isolation have negative consequences for youth as youth are especially vulnerable to the mental and emotional effects of room confinement. Room confinement poses a safety risk for youth, including increasing the likelihood of self-harm, suicide, and retraumatizing youth who were already victimized. Over the past decade, increased awareness about the over use and harm of room confinement have stimulated national momentum to end this inhumane practice.

Congress passed the First Step Act in 2018, this important law prohibits facilities that confine youth in federal custody from using room confinement as punishment and permits such confinement only when youth behavior poses a risk of physical harm that cannot be otherwise de-escalated. In addition to Congress, the United States Department of Justice, and prominent national professional organizations have taken strong positions against the isolation of youth.

Given our significant advances in juvenile justice system reform, recent national developments, and research, the time is right for the State of Hawai`i to ensure the basic safety and protection of our children by firmly establishing statutory limits on use room confinement at detention and shelter facilities.

Thank you for the opportunity to testify on this measure.

H.B. No. 188: RELATING TO THE ROOM CONFINEMENT OF CHILDREN
AT DETENTION AND SHELTER FACILITIES

Chair Yamane, Vice Chair Tam, and Members of the Committee:

The Office of the Public Defender supports H.B. 188.

This measure codifies safety and custody policies that were recommended and implemented in 2019 by the Courts and the administration of the Juvenile Detention Facility. Nationally, there has been a recognition of the harmful effects of solitary confinement or prolonged “room confinement” on juveniles in detention. This is especially true for juveniles experiencing a mental health crisis or ongoing mental health issues and who have been separated from their family. This measure addresses many of our concerns and codifies necessary rules and procedures, as there is a need for limitations and guidelines on the appropriate use of “room confinement.”

Thank you for the opportunity to comment on this measure.

Re: Testimony of the ACLU of Hawai'i in Support of H.B. 188, Relating to the Room Confinement of Children at Detention and Shelter Facilities

Dear Chair Yamane, Vice Chair Tam, and members of the Committee:

The ACLU of Hawai'i writes in support of H.B. 188, with two suggested amendments. This bill effectively ends the use of juvenile solitary confinement in the state of Hawai'i, and we applaud the Judiciary's continued work on this issue.

To further improve this measure, however, we respectfully request that the Committee amend H.B. 188 in the following ways: 1) add a clause that prohibits the use of consecutive periods of room confinement to evade the spirit and purpose of the bill;<sup>1</sup> and 2) add a requirement for all shelters and detention centers to report annually their compliance with the law, including the number of incidents of room confinement every year, the number of youth impacted, age, gender, race, alternative strategies employed prior to use of room confinement, and reason those strategies failed and room confinement was necessary. We also recommend including the number of times room confinement exceeded three hours and the authorizing official's name. This would be reported in full to the legislature or made available to the public upon request, with identifying information removed. The ACLU's National Prison Project has found this data reporting necessary to ensure that facilities actually comply with the law.

Solitary confinement is actively harmful to youth health and development.<sup>2</sup> A number of studies show that extreme social isolation and lack of environmental stimulation can impose serious cognitive, emotional, and psychological harm—even after only a short period of confinement and even absent additional harsh conditions.<sup>3</sup> We are concerned with the many uses of solitary, including protective confinement (if the youth is in danger), administrative solitary confinement or segregation (perceived dangerousness or likely future conduct, housing decisions), seclusion for medical or psychological reasons, and medical quarantine. Though there may be medical or safety reasons for several of these types, the need to promote rehabilitation dramatically outweighs the mental and emotional costs of committing a child to solitary confinement. Other jurisdictions have moved away from the use of solitary confinement, sometimes via settlement agreements.<sup>4</sup> This bill clarifies the definition of solitary confinement. Without this bill, there is no maximum amount of time for these other types of solitary confinement, including administrative segregation and room confinement.

The bill also clarifies the due process procedures available to the youth when an initial decision to confine a child is made.

We know in the past juvenile solitary confinement in Hawai‘i has been used as punishment. The purpose of detention is rehabilitation; using solitary in this way is retaliatory in nature, overly punitive, and creates tension within the facility when therapies and educational services are also provided. Solitary is also often disproportionately applied, commonly to Native Hawaiian or Pacific Islander youth, youth with disabilities, and LGBTQ youth.<sup>5</sup>

This bill significantly narrows the allowable reasons for, and the duration of, each instance of solitary confinement. In the past, the ACLU of Hawai‘i has discovered instances of the use of solitary confinement for verbal outbursts or having head lice; in several of these cases, the use extended into days or even weeks. For some of these vulnerable children, their suicidal ideation returned or was exacerbated as a result. More than half of youth who commit suicide in detention facilities do so in solitary confinement.<sup>6</sup> Often many children held in juvenile detention settings suffer from mental illnesses or have a disability. Note that the Individuals with Disabilities Education Act and Section 504 of the Rehabilitation Act apply to children with disabilities in detention settings. The extended use of solitary confinement past a few hours is cruel, but especially so in these circumstances. Lowering the maximum to three brings Hawai‘i into alignment with national best practices.

The youth who end up in detention have been failed by other state systems, including education, foster care, and mental health systems. Relying on the use of solitary confinement as a punitive tool, rather than a way for youth to calm down and aid in the rehabilitation process, exacerbates inequity and the dangers of confinement. For these reasons, the ACLU of Hawai‘i supports H.B. 188. Thank you for the opportunity to testify.

Sincerely,

Hope Kerpelman
