Testimony in Support of SCR159/SR129 - Providing funding and support to the Ukrainian Military in its defense against aggression from Russia

To: Chairs Glenn Wakai and Chris Lee, Vice Chairs Stanley Chang and Lorraine R. Inouye, and Members of the Committee on Energy and Intergovernmental Affairs and Committee on Transportation and Culture and the Arts

Date: Tuesday, March 25, 2025, Time: 3:00 p.m.

Place: Conference Room 016 & Videoconference

Dear Chairs Wakai and Lee, Vice Chairs Chang and Inouye, and Committee Members:

The Environmental Caucus of the Democratic Party of Hawaii submits this testimony in strong support of SCR159/SR129, urging the United States Congress to continue providing funding and support to the Ukrainian military in its defense against aggression from Russia.

- Climate change and environmental destruction exacerbate geopolitical conflicts and humanitarian crises, as seen in Ukraine. Supporting Ukraine's defense contributes to stabilizing regions where environmental resources are at risk due to aggression and warfare.
- Protection of Ukraine is essential to preserving its rich environmental and agricultural resources, which are vital to global food security and biodiversity.
- Continued funding ensures the survival and resilience of Ukrainian communities, whose efforts to sustain their natural environment amidst conflict exemplify the intersection of human and ecological sustainability.
- Hawaii, as an environmentally-conscious state, recognizes the importance of standing with Ukraine to uphold democratic values and foster global stability in the face of threats to people and ecosystems.
- Advancing SCR159/SR129 highlights the interconnectedness of environmental stewardship and peacebuilding, reflecting the values and mission of the Environmental Caucus.

Mahalo for the opportunity to provide this testimony.

Sincerely,

Melodie Aduja and Alan Burdick

Co-chairs, Environmental Caucus of the Democratic Party of Hawaii

Written Testimony in Opposition to S.R. No. 129 & S.C.R. No. 159

Submitted to the Senate Committee on EIG/TCA

March 24, 2025

As a proud citizen guided by the principles of America First—prioritizing our nation’s resources, security, and sovereignty—I strongly urge you to vote NO on Senate Resolution 129 and Senate Concurrent Resolution 159. This resolution calls on Congress to continue funding and supporting Ukraine’s military against Russia, a policy that drains American taxpayers, risks escalating global tensions, and conflicts with the Trump administration’s agenda of peace through strength. From a Republican perspective, I appeal to Democrats on this committee who value fiscal responsibility, community safety, and Hawaii’s unique needs to reject this measure. Below, I outline clear, objective reasons why this resolution is misguided, with examples of negative outcomes from similar policies elsewhere and warnings about defying the administration’s direction.

Draining Hawaii’s Taxpayers for a Foreign War

SR 129 & SCR 159 push for endless U.S. funding of Ukraine’s military, ignoring the burden this places on Hawaii’s working families. The resolution notes that current aid has helped Ukraine’s defense, but at what cost? Congress has already poured \$174.2 billion into Ukraine since 2022—money that could rebuild our schools, fix our roads, or lower taxes here at home. President Trump has warned, “The American taxpayers are tired of funding this war, and there’s no end in sight” (Sen. Markwayne Mullin quoting Trump, CNN, March 3, 2025). Defying this stance risks Hawaii being sidelined when federal funds are allocated—potentially costing us disaster relief or infrastructure grants we desperately need after events like the Maui wildfires.

Escalating Global Tensions, Not Peace

This resolution doubles down on military aid, clashing with the Trump administration’s focus on negotiation over confrontation. Trump has said, “I think what I’m in support of is a peaceful outcome and result in Ukraine, and right now the administration... [is] working to achieve that” (NPR, Feb. 19, 2025). Yet SR 129 & SCR 159 push for more weapons, not talks, risking a wider conflict that could pull the U.S.—and Hawaii’s sons and daughters in uniform—into a quagmire. Look at California, where state resolutions supporting Ukraine aid in 2023 led to protests and divided communities, with no tangible benefit to residents. Democrats who seek stability should see that peace, not escalation, serves Hawaii best.

Ignoring Local Priorities for a Distant Cause

Hawaii faces pressing challenges—housing shortages, high living costs, and climate threats—yet SR 129 & SCR 159 divert attention to a war 7,000 miles away. The resolution cites Ukraine’s 3.7 million displaced and 40% needing aid, but what about our own? Over 6,000 Hawaiians are homeless, and our state budget strains to support them. Oregon’s experience is a cautionary tale: its 2022 resolution backing Ukraine aid sparked backlash as homelessness spiked 23%, with critics arguing funds were misdirected. Democrats who champion social justice should prioritize our people over foreign battles.

Undermining Hawaii’s Voice in Washington

Opposing the Trump administration’s agenda—evident in its recent pause on Ukraine aid (Reuters, March 5, 2025)—could weaken Hawaii’s leverage with a GOP-led Congress. National Security Adviser Mike Waltz has said aid hinges on “confidence-building measures” for peace, not blank checks (Fox News, March 5, 2025).

If Hawaii defies this, we risk retaliation—like cuts to military base funding on Oahu, which employs thousands. Texas faced this in 2023 when its defiance on border policy led to reduced federal support, costing jobs. Democrats who value Hawaii’s economic security should avoid this trap.

No Clear Endgame, Just Endless Spending

SR 129 & SCR 159 demand “continued assistance as soon as possible” with no exit strategy, mirroring failed policies elsewhere. West Virginia’s 2022 push for Ukraine aid tied to state resolutions saw public frustration grow as costs mounted with no resolution, draining state morale and resources. Trump has criticized this approach, saying, “I don’t believe... Ukraine can win this war, and [we should] bring an end to it” (CNN, March 3, 2025). Democrats who oppose wasteful spending should demand a plan, not a blank commitment.

A Call for Reason Over Recklessness

SR 129 & SCR 159 sacrifice Hawaii’s interests for a cause we can’t sustain. It defies the Trump administration’s push for peace—risking our state’s standing—and mirrors flops in California, Oregon, and West Virginia. Democrats and all members: vote NO to keep our focus on Hawaii’s families, safety, and future. Let’s not trade our aloha for a war without end.

Sincerely,

Andrew Crossland

I strongly support this Resolution. The United States must stand in strong support of free countries against authoritarian aggression. If we fail to do so, our own liberty will eventually be compromised.

That is the hard lesson learned during World War II, more than 80 years ago. This is difficult, bloody, and terribly costly, but there is no reasonable alternative that will lead to a future where the world will enjoy freedom.

Thank you, Senator Rhoads, for introducing this very important Resolution.

Dear Members of the Hawaii State Legislature,

I am writing to express my strong opposition to Senate Resolution 129 (SR129) and Senate Concurrent Resolution 159 (SCR159), which urge the United States Congress to continue providing funding and support to the Ukrainian military.

As a concerned citizen, I believe these resolutions are misguided for several reasons:

1. Constitutional concerns: Continued funding for foreign conflicts may exceed the federal government's constitutional authority to provide for the "common defense" and "general welfare" of the United States.
2. Fiscal responsibility: With our nation facing significant economic challenges, we should prioritize domestic needs over foreign military aid.
3. Shifting geopolitical landscape: Recent developments suggest that the conflict in Ukraine has reached a point where a negotiated settlement is necessary and preferable to prolonged military engagement.
4. Public mandate: There is growing sentiment among Americans to reduce involvement in overseas conflicts and focus on domestic priorities.
5. Diplomatic alternatives: Encouraging peace negotiations and diplomatic solutions would be a more constructive approach to resolving the conflict.

I urge you to reconsider your support for these resolutions and instead advocate for diplomatic efforts to bring about a peaceful resolution to the conflict in Ukraine.

Sincerely,
Deborah Umiamaka

President Zelensky and the Ukraine military have a serious manpower problem, going around the country and forcing conscripts to the frontline. Instead of thanking President Trump for trying to end the conflict with diplomacy Zelensky was disrespectful, ungrateful, and of accused of gambling with starting a global war by Vice President Vance in February 2025.

Director of National Intelligence Tulsi Gabbard stated in February 2022 that warmongers argue that we must protect Ukraine because it is a “democracy.” Ukraine isn't actually a democracy. To hold onto power, Ukraine's president shut down the 3 TV stations that criticized him, and imprisoned the head of the opposition political party which came in 2nd place in the election, and arrested and jailed its leaders (exactly what Putin has been accused of doing)—all with the support of U.S.

Please vote no on this bill and prioritize assisting Hawaii's citizens. The kanaka and kama aina have not recovered. The exodus of citizens leaving the state needs to be a priority.

Testimony in Opposition to Senate Resolution 129

Aloha mai kākou,

My name is Tiare Smith, a Native Hawaiian resident of Kahalu‘u, O‘ahu, where I have lived for 45 years. As a kama‘āina deeply rooted in this ‘āina, I submit this testimony in opposition to Senate Resolution 129 (SR129), which urges the Congress of the United States to continue providing funding and support to the Ukrainian military in its defense against Russian aggression. While I recognize the humanitarian impulses underlying this resolution, I respectfully contend that it precipitously commits Hawaii’s voice to a foreign policy stance that is antithetical to our local priorities, inequitable in its implications, and fiscally imprudent given more pressing domestic needs. Below, I outline the pros and cons of SR129 and propose detailed, cost-effective alternatives that prioritize safety, efficacy, and equity.

Pros of SR129

1. Humanitarian Solidarity: The resolution signals solidarity with Ukraine’s people, who have endured staggering losses—43,000 soldiers killed, 370,000 wounded, and over 30,000 civilian casualties since February 2022, per the United Nations and British Broadcasting Company. This aligns with Hawaii’s cultural value of aloha, extending compassion across borders.
2. Geopolitical Stability: Continued U.S. support could deter further Russian aggression, ostensibly stabilizing global security—an interest SR129 implicitly endorses as beneficial to international trade and peace, from which Hawaii, as a Pacific hub, indirectly benefits.
3. Moral Leadership: By affirming support for Ukraine’s sovereignty, SR129 positions Hawaii as a moral actor on the global stage, reinforcing the state’s commitment to democratic principles.

Cons of SR129

1. Fiscal Irresponsibility: The resolution endorses an open-ended commitment of U.S. resources—already exceeding $174 billion since 2022, per the Council on Foreign Relations—

without scrutiny of cost-effectiveness. This strains federal budgets, diverting funds that could address Hawaii's acute needs, such as housing shortages and disaster resilience.

2. Disenfranchisement of Local Priorities: SR129 sidesteps the voices of Hawaii's residents, many of whom struggle with a cost-of-living crisis—43% of Native Hawaiian households live below the poverty line, per the 2023 Office of Hawaiian Affairs report. Advocating for foreign military aid risks disenfranchising our communities by prioritizing distant conflicts over local equity.

3. Efficacy Concerns: The resolution assumes military funding is the most effective means to support Ukraine, yet escalation risks prolonging the war, exacerbating the 3.7 million internally displaced persons and 40% of Ukraine's population needing aid, as noted by the United Nations.

4. Safety Risks: Increased military aid heightens the specter of broader conflict, potentially involving NATO and threatening global stability—a scenario that could imperil Hawaii, given our strategic military position in the Pacific.

Detailed Solutions to Address the Cons

Rather than endorsing unchecked military funding, I propose the following alternatives, which offer greater safety, efficacy, cost-effectiveness, and equity:

1. Redirect Funding to Humanitarian Aid

- Solution: Urge Congress to reallocate resources from military support to targeted humanitarian assistance—e.g., $5 billion annually for food security, medical care, and resettlement for Ukraine's displaced population. This is a fraction of the $61 billion military aid package proposed in 2024 (per Congressional Budget Office estimates).

- Cost Savings: Humanitarian aid yields immediate, tangible relief at lower cost—e.g., $1 million in food aid feeds 50,000 people monthly (World Food Programme data), versus $1 million for a single Javelin missile system.

- Equity: This prioritizes human lives over weaponry, aligning with aloha and ensuring Hawaii's federal tax contributions address suffering rather than perpetuate conflict.

2. Advocate for Diplomatic Resolution

- Solution: Call for U.S. leadership in brokering a ceasefire through multilateral talks, leveraging the United Nations or neutral states like Switzerland, rather than escalating arms support.

- Efficacy: Diplomacy reduces casualties and displacement more sustainably than military aid, as evidenced by the 2022 grain export deal mediated by Turkey and the UN, which averted famine for millions.

- Safety: De-escalation mitigates risks of global conflict, safeguarding Hawaii's vulnerable position as a potential target in an expanded war.

3. Reinvest in Local Resilience

- Solution: Request that Congress redirect a portion of foreign aid budgets—e.g., $500 million annually—to Hawaii-specific initiatives, such as affordable housing (costing $300,000 per unit, per Hawaii Housing Finance and Development Corporation) or climate adaptation projects ($100 million for coastal protections, per DLNR estimates).

- Cost-Effectiveness: Local investment yields direct returns—e.g., every $1 spent on housing generates $2.50 in economic activity (National Association of Home Builders)—versus the uncertain outcomes of overseas military spending.

- Equity: This empowers Native Hawaiian and working-class families, rectifying decades of underfunding rather than exporting our resources abroad.

Conclusion

SR129, while well-intentioned, commits Hawaii to a policy that is fiscally unsustainable, locally disenfranchising, and geopolitically shortsighted. As a Native Hawaiian who has witnessed O'ahu's struggles over 45 years, I urge this body to reconsider its stance. Let us advocate for solutions that reflect our values—compassion through humanitarian aid, peace through diplomacy, and justice through reinvestment in our own communities. Mahalo for your consideration.

Respectfully submitted,

Tiare Smith

I am in strong opposition of SR129, I don't believe we need to continue to fund Ukraine. I feel we gave them more than enough of our tax payer money and military equipment. Also from what Zelinsky stated, half of the funding was not even received. Meaning, we have major corruption in our previous administration. Trump administration is working very diligently in negotiating a Peace deal. We need to support the administration and let them do their jobs. It is not clear who is the good guys and bad guys, as there is a reason why Russia attacked Ukraine. Which has to do with Ukraine being a part of NATO, which Putin gave warning about.
